Washington, March 4.—America's responsibility to lead the world to permanent peace and prosperity was proclaimed by President Coolidge in his inaugural address today as the paramount duty facing the nation.

The United States, isolated alike in its prosperity, its independence and its power, must recognize the obligation imposed by this exceptional position, he declared.

In his address, delivered in the traditional place before the great dome of the capitol, but by the magic of the radio carried far beyond the thousands who had gathered to hear him, to millions throughout the country, the President preached a gospel of international cooperation and domestic economy with a fervor that was at times deeply religious.

The President reemphasized governmental economy and tax reduction as the basic internal policies of his administration. The cost of government, he said, should be cut before government became more of a burden than a protection to the people. Tax reduction, he declared, was not only economically desirable but an inherent right to which the citizens of state and nation were entitled.

World leadership in the struggle to advance universal prosperity and peace devolves naturally upon the United States, the President pointed out, because among all the nations the United States is the most favorably situated.

Favors Adherence to World Court

Outlining specific ways in which the United States could properly exert its vast influence, the President advocated

Four Years Ago—Today

Washington, March 4.—Four years ago today Woodrow Wilson, a sad and shrunken figure, rode up to the capitol for the inaugural beside Warren G. Harding, sturdy and smiling.

Calvin Coolidge rode in the automobile behind them, watching silently the cheering crowds.

Today, Mr. Coolidge rode up Pennsylvania avenue alone with Mrs. Coolidge, President in his own right and his own Vice President coming behind.

adherence to the World Court, the holding of frequent international conferences such as those which resulted in the Dawes Plan and the Paris Agreement, continued endeavors to limit armaments, economic and financial assistance to less favored peoples, and the codification of international law.

President Coolidge stressed the principle that this country could only be permanently prosperous if other countries also attained a measure of prosperity. He urged therefore that the first aim of the United States in its foreign relations should be to assist other countries.

Silent on League of Nations

He did not refer to the league of nations or to debts. But this country's traditional isolation, he said, should only go so far as to keep this nation withdrawn from the political affairs of Europe while cooperating in every practical way which might promote peace and prosperity.

In discussing the world court he advocated this country's adherence in stronger terms than he has ever previously used.

"We cannot barter away our independence or our sovereignty," he said, "but we ought to engage in no refinements of logic, no sophistries, and no subterfuges, to argue away the undoubted duty of this country by reason of the might of its numbers, the power of its resources and its position of leadership in the world, activity and comprehensibility to signify its approval and to bear its full share of the responsibility of a candid and disinterested attempt at the establishment of a tribunal for the administration of even-handed justice between nation and nation. The weight of our enormous influence must be cast upon the side of a reign not of force, but of law and trial, not by battle, but by reason."

Advocates Tax Reduction

In discussing domestic affairs Mr. Coolidge set governmental economy and tax reduction above all the other aims of his administration. Outlining his general political philosophy he vigorously defended the principles of party government, division of powers, party responsibility, power of the courts and majority rule while he just as vigorously condemned government ownership, and radical constitutional changes. These principles, he declared, had been supported "by a very clear and definite mandate from the people" in the last election.

"When we turned from what was rejected to inquire what was accepted," he continued, discussing the meaning of the election, "the policy that stands out with the greatest clearness is that of economy in public expenditure with reduction and reform of taxation."

"The principle involved in this effort is that of conservation. The resources of this country are almost beyond computation. No mind can comprehend them. But the cost of our combined governments is likewise almost beyond definition."

"Not only those who are now making their tax returns, but those who meet the enhanced cost of existence in their monthly bills, know by hard experience what this great burden is and what it does. No matter what others may want these people want a drastic economy."

"I favor the policy of economy, not because I wish to save money, but because I wish to save people. Every dollar that we prudently save means that their life will be so much more abundant. Economy is idealism in its most practical form."

Domestic Situation Favorable

The President said the domestic situation at present was marked by the most favorable conditions. Industrial

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE INAUGURAL ADDRESS

"America seeks no earthly empire built on blood and force. . . . The legions which she sends forth are armed, not with the sword, but with the cross. . . . She cherishes no purpose save to merit the favor of Almighty God."

"I welcome the cooperation (of congress) and expect to share with it not only the responsibility, but the credit, for our common effort to secure beneficial legislation."

"The collection of any taxes, which are not absolutely required, which do not beyond reasonable doubt contribute to the public welfare, is only a species of legalized larceny."

"Unless we wish to hamper the people in their right to earn a living, we must have tax reform."

"The physical configuration of the earth has separated us from all of the Old World, but the common brotherhood of man, the highest law of all our being, has united us by inseparable bonds with all humanity."

"Our country represents nothing but peaceful intentions toward all the earth, but it ought not to fail to maintain such a military force as comports with the dignity and security of a great people."

"We cannot permit ourselves to be narrowed and dwarfed by slogans and phrases. . . . It is not the name of the action, but the result of the action, which is the chief concern. It will be well not to be too much disturbed by the thought of either isolation or entanglement of pacifists and militarists."

VICE PRESIDENT WANTS NO "OBSTRUCTION OF PUBLIC BUSINESS"

DEMANDS SENATE RULES BE REVISED TO EXPEDITE BUSINESS

(By United Press)

The Capitol, Washington, March 4.—In a fighting inaugural speech, Vice-President Charles G. Dawes, upon assuming his office in the Senate today demanded that the legislative rules of that body be revised so as to prevent "obstruction of the public business."

"Reform in the present rules of the Senate is demanded not only by American public opinion, but I venture to say in the individual consciences of a majority of the members of the Senate itself," Dawes declares.

"As it is the duty on the part of the presiding officer of the Senate to call attention to defective method in the conduct of business by the body over which he presides, so under the Constitutional power, it is the duty of the members of this body to correct them."

"To avoid an issue between a right and wrong method is in itself a wrong. To the performance of this duty—a duty which is non-partisan—a duty which is not sectional—a duty which is alone in the interest of the nation we have sworn faithfully to serve, I ask the co-operation of the Senate, appealing to the patriotism of the members."

Dawes was sworn into office by President pro tem Albert B. Cummins of Iowa in the ritual of constitutional custom in the senate chamber at 12:14 p. m., just one minute before Cummins declared Congress adjourned.

Most of the applause for Dawes' inaugural address, however, was noticeable from the galleries. Senators and members of congress were only mildly responsive and some of the Democratic Senators, noticeably Senator Reid of Missouri appeared to derive vast amusement from the General's pronouncement. Everyone agreed that his speech indicated there would be additional reason with Dawes presiding officer for attending sessions of the Senate—"The most interesting deliberative body in the world."

Not a hitch nor unhappy incident marred the day for the principals. From the standpoint of weather, a popular reaction to their respective addresses, and the spirit of those witnessing the ceremony, it appeared to be a brilliant beginning of their four-year regime.

Washington, March 4.—President Coolidge today signed the legislative bill which carried as a rider a $2500 salary increase for each of the members of Congress.

The bill was the last signed by the President before he left the President's room off the Senate chamber to begin the inaugural ceremony.

The increase will affect the new Congress coming into office March 4th. The present salary of congressmen is $7,500 a year.

The new law also increases salaries of the twelve members of the cabinet, the Vice-President and presiding officers of the Senate and House from $12,000 to $15,000 a year.

The increase adds $1,363,000 a year to the government pay-roll.

Inauguration Signalized the Coming of the New Vice President, New Cabinet Members and a New Congress; Thousands Throng Capital for Inauguration

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, March 4.—Calvin Coolidge today renewed his oath of office as thirtieth President of the United States in a brilliant ceremonial at the steps of the Capitol.

Before the judicial, diplomatic and military peerage of the nation massed at the eastern entrance—where Presidents of history have launched their administrations—Mr. Coolidge reaffirmed his pledge to his office and to the constitution.

His slow and even drawl leaped out through the radio amplifier in front of him to span the earth. It was the first time an inauguration has been broadcast. He said:

"I, Calvin Coolidge, do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will to the best of my ability preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States, so help me God!"

The event signalized the coming of the new vice president, new cabinet members and a new congress.

It was a solemn contrast to the scene in the early morning hours of August 3, 1923, when in the dim light of a flickering oil lamp upon the table of his Vermont farmhouse, Mr. Coolidge took the oath administered by his father.

Then only half a dozen witnesses—shocked at the sudden death of Warren G. Harding a few hours before—were present. Today the highest dignitaries of the land came to officiate. Black-robed justices of the United States supreme court stood at his side.

Chief Justice Taft, himself a former president, dressed in the solemn robes of his high office, administered the oath instead of the unshaven, aged and horny-handed farmer-father of the President, John Coolidge.

Glistening troops stood around in even rows—soldiers, sailors and marines. Plumed and braided ambassadors, ministers and foreign diplomats were there. Thousands of citizens thronged the square.

The ceremonies started early in the morning when the house and senate convened for their final session. For hours crowds surged along Pennsylvania avenue, in front of the capitol and the White House at places of vantage.

An hour before noon the congressional committee appointed to escort the new Vice President, Charles G. Dawes, called at his hotel.

The committee was composed of Senator Frederick Hale of Maine, and Representatives Willis C. Hawley of Oregon and Arthur B. Rouse of Kentucky. They brought Dawes to the White House where they met Mr. Coolidge and the congressional committee appointed to escort the President. Members of this committee were: Senator Charles E. Curtis of Kansas, Representative W. W. Grist of Pennsylvania and Senator Overman of North Carolina.

For nearly an hour the military escort had waited outside the White House. Cavalry horses, pawing at the hard pavement, swung into the lead at the sign from the front door that the President was ready to start. The leading band sailed off but his spirit remaining, sat beside the smiling and genial Warren G. Harding in the first automobile. Today Mr. Coolidge sat alone with Mrs. Coolidge and the congressional committee. Behind the first automobile came another carrying Vice President Dawes and his committee.

It is just exactly a mile from the White House to the capitol. The whole way was lined on both sides with cheering crowds. Mr. Coolidge acknowledged their greeting with a tip of his high silk hat.

Arriving at the capitol the party was escorted into the senate chamber where Mr. Coolidge affixed his signature to bills passed at the last moment before the hour of noon automatically put an end to the session.

Facing the desk of President pro tem Cummins in front of the chamber were arrayed chairs for the President, new Vice President and members of the cabinet. The first act was the administration of the oath to General Dawes and then Cummins relinquished the gavel to him. Dawes introduced the chaplain for prayer and then delivered his inaugural address.

Every inch of the small senate chamber was crowded. Only those with high official influence could obtain tickets to the gallery, where the fashionably dressed wives of government dignitaries predominated. Members of the House of Representatives crowded upon the floor so that there was hardly standing room.

Then the proclamation of the President convening the senate in an extra session to confirm his cabinet changes was read. The new senators who were elected in the Coolidge landslide of last November then came

Calvin Coolidge

Washington, March 4.—Calvin Coolidge of Vermont, in the full vigor of early maturity, today took his place as duly elected President of the United States. He has held the office since August 3, 1923, by virtue of the death of Warren G. Harding. Beginning today, however, he owes nothing of his office to mutations of fate, but solely to the people.

Born of stern New England stock, toughened by wrestling with the granite hills of Vermont for existence, Mr. Coolidge brings to his giant task the hardy vigor of his forebears. His watchword, "Economy," is also largely the gift of his ancestry, who found that nature yielded only with reluctance its fruits in bleak hills. His silence and patience are heirlooms from the same mountains. The want and need of money were impressed on him by his early struggles to gain an education and later to earn a living as a struggling young lawyer.

He early went into politics for two reasons: he is politically minded, and the political field furnishes both advertisement and expenses for a young lawyer. He remained in politics because he still liked politics and had succeeded.

Missing Senate Faces

Washington, March 4.—Four familiar faces passed from the senate with the expiration of the sixty-eighth congress at noon today. They are:

Magnus Johnson, the Farmer-Laborite, who left his Minnesota farm at the call of the electorate two years ago to come down to Washington.

Medill McCormick, of the Illinois McCormicks, a Republican, who was elected in 1918 and took a prominent part in the furor over the Versailles treaty.

Thomas Sterling, Republican, of South Dakota, who has been in the senate since 1913, a champion of prohibition.

David I. Walsh, Democrat, of Massachusetts, senator since 1918, who was defeated by Speaker Frederick H. Gillett in the Coolidge wave.

WCCO IS READY FOR BIG EVENT

HUNDRED ARTISTS LISTED FOR FIRST PROGRAM FROM NEW TWIN CITY STATION

Minneapolis, March 4.—The stage is all set for the opening program of the new 5,000 watt transmitting station of WCCO.

Promptly at 8 o'clock tonight the new radio station "will take the air" and the most elaborate radio program ever transmitted in the north-west will be broadcast to thousands of radio listeners throughout the country.

Governor Theodore Christianson, the only speaker on the opening program will formally open the new station from the Minneapolis studio on the roof of the New Nicollet hotel. The introduction of the staff of WCCO will follow.

While thousands of radio fans are "listening in" throughout the country a radio ball will be in progress at the New Nicollet hotel and hundreds of invited guests will inspect the new studio and offices of the Gold Medal station.

The opening program has been named the "All-Star Northwest Program" and the talent which will appear at the studio numbers more than 100 artists.

A great variety of instrumental music has been arranged for the opening night. Among the musical organizations will be the third infantry band of Fort Snelling; George Osborn's orchestra, Dick Long's orchestra and the Minneapolis Athletic club orchestra.

Several vocal musical organizations will add to the musical section of the program. The Rhys-Herbert male chorus will make its radio debut and the Gold Medal quartet and Pilgrim Baptist church choir will be heard. The church choir will offer Negro spirituals.

The entertainment will not be confined to groups, for sketches of a varied nature will enliven the program. Hal Paris and Rollo Welis will contribute scheduled numbers. Thelma Halverson and Selma Erickson, sopranos; Mabel Pettetier, contralto and Francis Rosenthal, basso, will give classical and semi-classical numbers.

Prominent members of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra to appear including Engelbert Roentgen cellist and assistant conductor of the orchestra; Henry J. Williams, solo harpist, and Carlo Fischer for many years first cellist of the symphony.

Ernest Leigl, also of the orchestra, will play a flute obligato to the soprano solo of Elsie Yoerg. Karl Schurer of the music department of the University of Minnesota, and for a number of years with the symphony makes up the third of a trio including Mr. Williams and Mr. Fischer. Harrison Wall Johnson, pianist, will give solo numbers in addition to appearing with Mr. Roentgen in a group of two part numbers.

Dave Rubinoff, violinist and Eddie Dunstetter, are also on the bill. Mr. Rubinoff playing over the radio for the first time his own composition, "Russian Rhapsody." On account of the decision of the management to limit the program to numbers only which can be broadcast from the studio Mr. Dunstetter will desert his organ and prove that he really started his musical career as a pianist. Sylvester Cargill is scheduled for an appearance as xylophone soloist. The American Legion Auxiliary octet, which scored a hit in a recent appearance at the station, are in on the opening program also.

And for those to whom musical entertainment is lacking in appeal specialties of various kinds will be introduced, among them George Lamb, reader and a "double act" with Gertrude O'Neill Ganley and Paul Johnson in dialect. To those listeners who know Paul Johnson as the most serious minded announcer in America, his appearance in a comedy act will prove a distinct surprise to the radio audience.

Sandwiched in so as to provide a proper mixture during the course of the five-hour program, the problem of building the schedule to hold the interest of the assorted listeners was a difficult one indeed. With two and a half years' experience in program making, Mrs. Eleanor Poehler, musical director of the station, has spent weeks in arranging the musical menu to suit the most exacting taste.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS IN CITY

Clearly Heard Here Over WCCO Station, Minneapolis-St. Paul

PUBLIC SCHOOLS LISTEN

Brainerd Electric Co., Taylor Sales Service, Lyceum Theatre and Others Assist With Equipment

The inaugural address was received in Brainerd very clearly through the new high-power 5,000 watt WCCO station of Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Through the courtesy of the Brainerd Electric Company and the Taylor Sales Service, several of the public schools were equipped with radio receiving sets, loaned by private individuals and operated by the above companies.

These companies, with the Lyceum theatre, held open house for all who cared to listen in, and a large crowd gathered, including the pupils of St. Francis school and the Brainerd Commercial College, who went in a body to the Lyceum theatre.

The program began with a prelude furnished by the pipe organ at the State theatre, Minneapolis at about 10 o'clock. Half an hour later the United States marine band gave an excellent concert, followed by the oath of office administered by Chief Justice William Howard Taft. The president then delivered his inaugural message, which began about noon, central standard time, and continued nearly an hour.

Missionary Societies

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary societies of the Methodist church will meet Thursday, March 5th at 3 o'clock in the church basement. The supplies for the Deaconess Home at Rapid City, S. D. should be brought to this meeting.

LUNATIC BROTHERS HOLD FARM HOUSE

SHERIFF OF BELLEFONTAINE, OHIO, IN WATCHFUL WAITING MOOD

(By United Press) Bellefontaine, O., March 4.—The seizure of the Russlyan farm house where Harry Wren, 50, and his brother Ray, 40, lunatics have barricaded themselves against the law was turned today into a campaign of watchful waiting. Sheriff Wooley said he would exert all effort to dislodge the brothers peacefully before resorting to tear bombs or other form of violence.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally by Drinking Quarts of Good Water

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Adv.

CHAS. G. DAWES; VICE-PRESIDENT

(By United Press) Washington, March 4.—Chas. G. Dawes of Illinois, who today became Vice President of the United States, is no stranger to Washington and its ways. While this office is the first he has ever held at the gift of the people, Dawes served under McKinley as comptroller of the currency and under Harding as director of the budget. Primarily a "big business" man, Dawes knows politicians from the ground up. He knows soldiers too. He received his title of general in the World War, where he served on the staff of General Pershing as general purchasing agent of the American forces. Long after the war, he won his other title "Hell an' Maria," by his vigorous comments when on the witness stand in a post-war investigation. The "Dawes Plan" for the settlement of the German reparations problem is one of his still more recent accomplishments.

Born in Marietta in 1855, Dawes studied law and practiced at Lincoln, Neb. In 1894 he abandoned the law and went to Evanston, Ill., to make gas. From gas he went into the banking business with great success. At the Cleveland convention, Republican managers were looking for a conservative middle-western man to run with Coolidge. After former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois declined the job, Dawes was an easy choice.

Dawes at 69 is a typical American business man. He is of the human "dynamo" type, strenuous, wiry, forceful in act and language. Recently he emerged from a hospital where he went for an operation, said to have been forced by a slight hernia caused by too vigorous pursuit of a "daily dozen." Just how well he will fit into the rather commonplace job of acting as shepherd for 96 senators is a matter of conjecture. When he was head of the budget department he showed slight regard for the purely political side of public life.

Dawes comes from old English and later New England stock. A remote ancestor was an archbishop of Canterbury, while genealogists have stated that another ancestor, Wm. G. Dawes, was the real hero of Paul Revere's ride.

GERMANY IN SAD FAREWELL TO PRES. EBERT

HOMAGE PAID HIM THROUGHOUT THE ENTIRE REPUBLIC

REMAINS ARE TAKEN TO OLD HEIDELBERG FOR BURIAL

(By United Press) Berlin, March 4.—Germany this afternoon staged a sad farewell to its first president. The land of his humble fathers and the seat of his triumph paid to Frederick Ebert homage that might have been a king's through lanes of saddened folk, friends he had known as a simple saddle-maker and those he had known as the leader of a republic. The body of Frederick Ebert was taken to old Heidelberg where it will lie in honor and be near those of his mother and father.

Words of comfort and prayers from many sent the body on its way. Leaders in the political and economic life of Germany and representatives of foreign countries gathered at the bier in the palace, now a mourning chamber.

BILL PROVIDES 2 NEW U. S. JUDGES

MINNESOTAN IS EXPECTED TO GET PLACE ON EIGHTH CIRCUIT BENCH

St. Paul, March 4.—Congress passed a bill in its closing hours providing for two additional federal circuit court judges in the eighth district, which includes Minnesota.

If Pres. Coolidge signs the measure and makes the appointment, it is believed one of those named will be a Minnesota man. The district includes the states of Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas, Wyoming, Oklahoma, Utah, New Mexico, North and South Dakota.

Judges sit in St. Paul, St. Louis and Denver.

Congress also has authorized the president to name a new federal district court judge to succeed the late Judge John F. McGee.

It is expected this and the other appointments will be made soon after the inauguration today.

FOR TEN YEARS—DEPENDABLE

Exceptional dependability has been a characteristic of Dodge Brothers Motor Car since the day the first of these sturdy cars was marketed.

Not once in a decade has it failed to uphold and enhance its reputation for faithful performance.

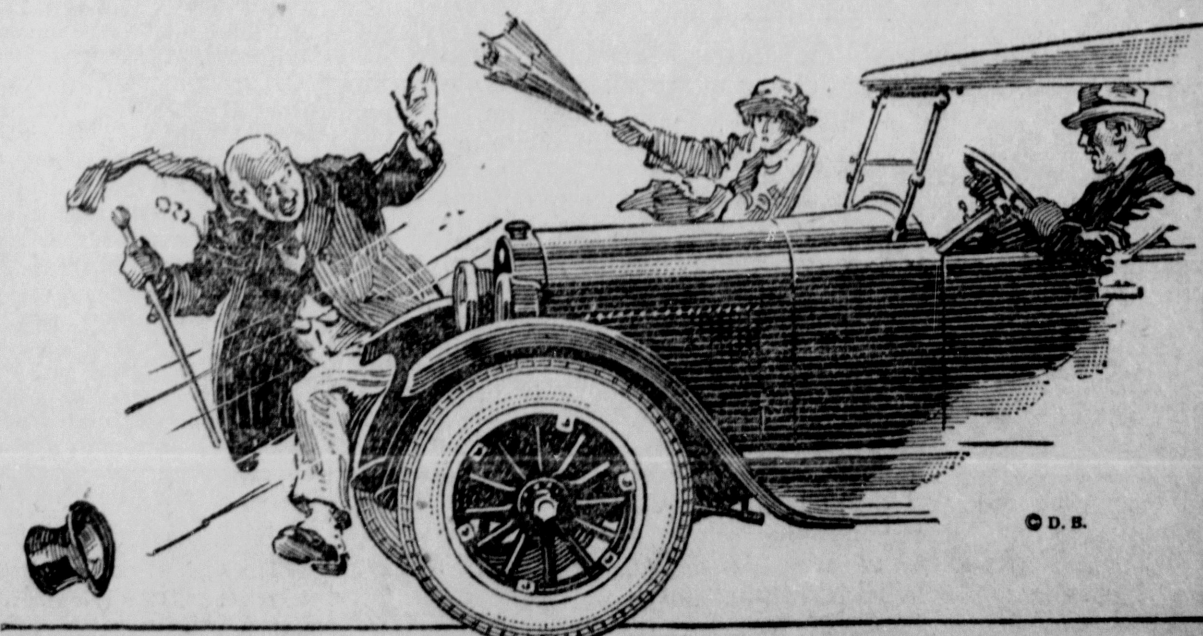

The reason for its consistent goodness and continued betterment points directly back to the ideals of the founders.

Instead of fluctuating between an endless series of annual models, they determined to concentrate on the perfection of a single chassis.

Dodge Brothers Motor Car today is the embodiment of that ideal—an ideal that will endure as long as the institution itself.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS IN CITY

Clearly Heard Here Over WCCO Station, Minneapolis-St. Paul

PUBLIC SCHOOLS LISTEN

Brainerd Electric Co., Taylor Sales Service, Lyceum Theatre And Others Assist With Equipment

The inaugural address was received in Brainerd very clearly through the new high-power 5,000 watt WCCO station of Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Through the courtesy of the Brainerd Electric Company and the Taylor Sales Service, several of the public schools were equipped with radio receiving sets, loaned by private individuals, and operated by the above companies.

These companies, with the Lyceum theatre, held open house for all who cared to listen in, and a large crowd gathered, including the pupils of St. Francis school and the Brainerd Commercial College, who went in a body to the Lyceum theatre.

The program began with a prelude furnished by the pipe organ at the State theatre, Minneapolis at about 10 o'clock. Half an hour later the United States marine band gave an excellent concert, followed by the oath of office administered by Chief Justice William Howard Taft. The president then delivered his inaugural message, which began about noon, central standard time, and continued nearly an hour.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally by Drinking Quarts of Good Water

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Adv.

CHAS. G. DAWES; VICE-PRESIDENT

(By United Press)

Washington, March 4.—Chas. G. Dawes of Illinois, who today became Vice President of the United States, is no stranger to Washington and its ways. While this office is the first he has ever held at the gift of the people, Dawes served under McKinley as comptroller of the currency and under Harding as director of the budget. Primarily a "big business" man, Dawes knows politicians from the ground up. He knows soldiers too. He received his title of general in the World War, where he served on the staff of General Pershing as general purchasing agent of the American forces. Long after the war, he won his other title "Hell an' Maria," by his vigorous comments when on the witness stand in a post-war investigation. The "Dawes Plan" for the settlement of the German reparations problem is one of his still more recent accomplishments.

Born in Marietta in 1855, Dawes studied law and practiced at Lincoln, Neb. In 1894 he abandoned the law and went to Evanston, Ill., to make gas. From gas he went into the banking business with great success.

At the Cleveland convention, Republican managers were looking for a conservative middle-western man to run with Coolidge. After former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois declined the job, Dawes was an easy choice.

Dawes at 60 is a typical American business man. He is of the human "dynamo" type, strenuous, wiry, forceful in act and language. Recently he emerged from a hospital where he went for an operation, said to have been forced by a slight hernia caused by too vigorous pursuit of a "daily dozen." Just how well he will fit into the rather commonplace job of acting as shepherd for 96 senators is a matter of conjecture. When he was head of the budget department he showed slight regard for the purely political side of public life.

Dawes comes from old English and later New England stock. A remote ancestor was an archbishop of Canterbury, while genealogists have stated that another ancestor, Wm. G. Dawes, was the real hero of Paul Revere's ride.

TRUNK HIGHWAYS WILL PAY BONDS

A GREAT number of people are under the impression that if the $20,000,000 refundment bond issue materializes the debt will have to be paid from the general revenue fund of the state. This is far from the facts. This issue is to be used to replace bonds which have already been issued by counties and at maturity will be cared for by the trunk highway sinking fund. The proposed bill in full is given below:

Section 1. The issuance and sale of bonds by the state of Minnesota under the provisions of section 4 of article 16 of the constitution of Minnesota during each of the calendar years of 1925, 1926, 1927, 1928, 1929, 1930, 1931, 1932, 1933 and 1934, in amounts as limited by the provisions hereof, is hereby authorized, and the full faith and credit of the state of Minnesota is hereby irrevocably pledged to the payment of the principal of said bonds and the interest thereon. Said bonds shall be issued and sold, on competitive bids after reasonable notice, or direct to the state board of investment without bids, by a board consisting of the state auditor, the state treasurer and the commissioner of highways, under such rules and in such form and denominations as said board shall determine, shall be signed by the state treasurer and attested by the secretary of state and shall be sold for not less than par and accrued interest. Such rules may provide for the registration and conversion of the bonds so issued.

Section 2. Said bond is hereby authorized to issue and sell, in each of the calendar years named in section 1 hereof, bonds in an amount not exceeding the principal sum of county bonds which are to be paid out of the trunk highway fund during that year, on either absolute or optional maturity, but the aggregate amount of bonds issued in any one year or at any time outstanding shall in no case exceed the limitations fixed by said article 16. Said bonds shall mature in not less than 10 years nor more than 20 years from date of issue. They shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding five per cent per annum, payable semi-annually. The state auditor shall keep a record showing the number, amount, date of issue and date of maturity of each bond.

Section 3. The proceeds of the sale of said bonds shall be paid into the treasury of the state and credited to the trunk highway fund. SAID BONDS SHALL BE REDEEMED AND THE INTEREST THEREON PAID FROM THE TRUNK HIGHWAY SINKING FUND. Said board shall in making the annual transfer from the trunk highway sinking fund to the trunk highway fund retain in the trunk highway sinking fund a sum sufficient to provide for the payment of outstanding bonds at maturity which sum shall be not less than one-twentieth of the principal of all state bonds then outstanding, and also the amount necessary for the payment of interest on such bonds during the ensuing year. The amount remaining in the trunk highway sinking fund may be invested as provided in General Statutes 1923, section 2556.

COOLIDGE ECONOMY PROGRAM

WHEN Coolidge backs an economy program, he means it and his acts show it. Witness his tour to Chicago made in an official capacity, where the President discontinued the special train plan and saved the taxpayers thousands.

Again we see it exemplified in the inauguration day program where he reduced costs to $500. Of course, he has incurred the displeasure of many hotel keepers of the nation's capital.

Coolidge is that rare kind of an individual who does more than preach a certain doctrine. He practices what he preaches. He tells all America what to do in matters of economy and then, having done his part in giving voice to an evangelization program, exemplifies what he teaches.

GEN. MITCHELL TAKES THE AIR

WHEN Brigadier-General William Mitchell took the air the world certainly heard him. In spite of some congressional static and objections on the part of war and other departments, Mitchell had his say and let them know "what's what." Now Bill loses his job on March 26.

The next assistant army air chief will be selected from a brief list of names now before Secretary Weeks, and that list, as reported by newspapers, has a big minus sign so far as Mitchell is concerned. Unification of the government's air service has not made its appeal to those high in authority.

SIGNS POSTAL INCREASE SALARY BILL

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE has signed the postal increase salary bill and all the postoffice boys here will get around $300 more a year. It means much to the local force as well as the rural carriers.

Previous bills were vetoed by President Coolidge because they carried no provisions for meeting the salary raise.

At the Brainerd postoffice the salary raise will effect seven city carriers, seven clerks, the assistant postmaster and six rural carriers. Figuring the average annual raise at $300, it will mean the disbursement of $6,300 extra salary in Brainerd.

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT BULLETINS

THE highway department sends out weekly bulletins to the newspapers of the state, telling what it is doing and what it intends to do. This gives much information and is well compiled for newspaper publication.

Senator Carley, it is reported, wants to stop this service. The information is valuable to all the people and many papers fail to see the object of Senator Carley's antagonism to road matter publicity.

THE supreme court of the United States has decided that federal prohibition officers can stop and search automobile parties without a warrant. That may be all right, says the St. Cloud Daily Journal-Press, but how is the automobilist going to distinguish dry agents from bandits?

DULUTH is proud of the name "Arrowhead Country" conferred on district tributary. It's not original, however, having been used for years in the extreme west.

CONGRESS probably considered taking up the economy program of the President so arduous an undertaking that it voted itself a raise in salary for extra labor.

THREE measures are now before the legislature to protect the people from the wiles of the itinerant peddler.

To break up petting parties, the Stillwater Gazette urges a liberal diet of onions, garlic and limburger.

TOMMY MILTON just won an auto race, averaging 126.39 miles per hour.

FAMOUS FORTS
IN U. S. HISTORY

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

Outposts of the Old S. W.
Frontier

When white "squatters" began trespassing upon the lands set aside for the Choctaw Indians in the present state of Oklahoma a hundred years ago, the government determined to establish military posts in that region to protect its red wards. Accordingly Col. Matthew Arbuckle, commandant at Fort Smith, Ark., was ordered to select sites for two new forts, one near the mouth of the Verdigris river in the valley of the Arkansas and the other near the mouth of the Kiamitia in the Red river country.

Arbuckle asked Col. Auguste P. Chouteau, a Creole French trader who was familiar with the region, to select the site for the post on the Verdigris and by the middle of April, 1824, Chouteau and Capt. Nathaniel Pryor, another well-known frontiersman of that day, had chosen the place. Within a few weeks Arbuckle had established there a stockaded fort and it was occupied by a force of 300 men. This was the beginning of Fort Gibson, named in honor of Col. George Gibson, then commissary general.

The first few years of Fort Gibson's existence were uneventful. It was a lonely outpost with canoe travel on the Grand river as the only means of communication with the outside world until 1828, when the first steamboat arrived. In 1832 Washington Irving visited the post, and in his book "A Tour of the Prairies" we are given some interesting glimpses of life at this far western military post.

In 1844 there was organized at Fort Gibson an expedition to return to their people some captive Kiowa and Wichita Indian children, who had been ransomed from the Osages, and Gen. Henry Leavenworth came to the fort to take command. This was the first appearance of the newly organized First dragoons which numbered among its officers such celebrities as Henry Dodge, Stephen W. Kearney, Edwin V. Sumner, Philip St. George Cooke and Jefferson Davis. George Catlin, the famous Indian painter, also accompanied the expedition.

From that time on Fort Gibson was an important post in the southwest and with the exception of three or four years just before the Civil war it was continuously garrisoned by regulars until 1890. During the Civil war it was the center of operations for the armies which were contesting for control of Indian Territory but after the war the frontier had been pushed so far beyond it that it gave place in importance to several other Oklahoma forts, notably Fort Sill.

White Evening Frocks
Afford Dainty Attire

White for evening was the dictate of the smartest courtesies at the beginning of the season, and white for evening is apparently the rule of fashion.

There are two kinds of white evening frocks, one that has the ingeniousness of youth, the other is sophistication that can be achieved only by the true artist in clothes.

In the first class are those adorable dance frocks of chiffon trimmed with gardenias or of tulle with wide full skirts like that of a Spanish dancer and pert little bows of silver ribbon pinned at a most strategic point.

Under the heading of frocks of sophistication come models developed in sumptuous brocades which have here and there a glint of metal woven in their pattern.

Equally beautiful and as dignified as they are graceful are gowns of white velvet bordered with fox or ermine or covered with a tracery of intricate embroidery done in silver and crystal.

In a bookseller's catalogue sent us we read: "The Wives of Henry the Eighth, Third Thousand." Surely there is some exaggeration here—Boston Transcript.

Dispatch Cross Word Puzzle No. 79

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSSWORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

TRUNK HIGHWAYS WILL PAY BONDS

A GREAT number of people are under the impression that if the $20,000,000 refundment bond issue materializes the debt will have to be paid from the general revenue fund of the state. This is far from the facts. This issue is to be used to replace bonds which have already been issued by counties and at maturity will be cared for by the trunk highway sinking fund. The proposed bill in full is given below:

Section 1. The issuance and sale of bonds by the state of Minnesota under the provisions of section 4 of article 16 of the constitution of Minnesota during each of the calendar years of 1925, 1926, 1927, 1928, 1929, 1930, 1931, 1932, 1933 and 1934, in amounts as limited by the provisions hereof, is hereby authorized, and the full faith and credit of the state of Minnesota is hereby irrevocably pledged to the payment of the principal of said bonds and the interest thereon. Said bonds shall be issued and sold, on competitive bids after reasonable notice, or direct to the state board of investment without bids, by a board consisting of the state auditor, the state treasurer and the commissioner of highways, under such rules and in such form and denominations as said board shall determine, shall be signed by the state treasurer and attested by the secretary of state and shall be sold for not less than par and accrued interest. Such rules may provide for the registration and conversion of the bonds so issued.

Section 2. Said board is hereby authorized to issue and sell, in each of the calendar years named in section 1 hereof, bonds in an amount not exceeding the principal sum of county bonds which are to be paid out of the trunk highway fund during that year, on either absolute or optional maturity, but the aggregate amount of bonds issued in any one year or at any time outstanding shall in no case exceed the limitations fixed by said article 16. Said bonds shall mature in not less than 10 years nor more than 20 years from date of issue. They shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding five per cent per annum, payable semi-annually. The state auditor shall keep a record showing the number, amount, date of issue and date of maturity of each bond.

Section 3. The proceeds of the sale of said bonds shall be paid into the treasury of the state and credited to the trunk highway fund. SAID BONDS SHALL BE REDEEMED AND THE INTEREST THEREON PAID FROM THE TRUNK HIGHWAY SINKING FUND. Said board shall in making the annual transfer from the trunk highway sinking fund to the trunk highway fund retain in the trunk highway sinking fund a sum sufficient to provide for the payment of outstanding bonds at maturity which sum shall be not less than one-twentieth of the principal of all state bonds then outstanding, and also the amount necessary for the payment of interest on such bonds during the ensuing year. The amount remaining in the trunk highway sinking fund may be invested as provided in General Statutes 1923, section 2556.

COOLIDGE ECONOMY PROGRAM

WHEN Coolidge backs an economy program, he means it and his acts show it. Witness his tour to Chicago made in an official capacity, where the President discontinued the special train plan and saved the taxpayers thousands.

Again we see it exemplified in the inauguration day program where he reduced costs to $500. Of course, he has incurred the displeasure of many hotel keepers of the nation's capital.

Coolidge is that rare kind of an individual who does more than preach a certain doctrine. He practices what he preaches. He tells all America what to do in matters of economy and then, having done his part in giving voice to an evangelization program, exemplifies what he teaches.

GEN. MITCHELL TAKES THE AIR

WHEN Brigadier-General William Mitchell took the air the world certainly heard him. In spite of some congressional static and objections on the part of war and other departments, Mitchell had his say and let them know "what's what." Now Bill loses his job on March 26.

The next assistant army air chief will be selected from a brief list of names now before Secretary Weeks, and that list, as reported by newspapers, has a big minus sign so far as Mitchell is concerned. Unification of the government's air service has not made its appeal to those high in authority.

SIGNS POSTAL INCREASE SALARY BILL

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE has signed the postal increase salary bill and all the postoffice boys here will get around $300 more a year. It means much to the local force as well as the rural carriers.

Previous bills were vetoed by President Coolidge because they carried no provisions for meeting the salary raise.

At the Brainerd postoffice the salary raise will effect seven city carriers, seven clerks, the assistant postmaster and six rural carriers. Figuring the average annual raise at $300, it will mean the disbursement of $6,300 extra salary in Brainerd.

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT BULLETINS

THE highway department sends out weekly bulletins to the newspapers of the state, telling what it is doing and what it intends to do. This gives much information and is well compiled for newspaper publication.

Senator Carley, it is reported, wants to stop this service. The information is valuable to all the people and many papers fail to see the object of Senator Carley's antagonism to road matter publicity.

THE supreme court of the United States has decided that federal prohibition officers can stop and search automobile parties without a warrant. That may be all right, says the St. Cloud Daily Journal-Press, but how is the automobilist going to distinguish dry agents from bandits?

DULUTH is proud of the name "Arrowhead Country" conferred on district tributary. It's not original, however, having been used for years in the extreme west.

CONGRESS probably considered taking up the economy program of the President so arduous an undertaking that it voted itself a raise in salary for extra labor.

THREE measures are now before the legislature to protect the people from the wiles of the itinerant peddler.

To break up petting parties, the Stillwater Gazette urges a liberal diet of onions, garlic and limburger.

TOMMY MILTON just won an auto race, averaging 126.39 miles per hour.

FAMOUS FORTS IN U. S. HISTORY

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

Outposts of the Old S. W. Frontier

When white "squatters" began trespassing upon the lands set aside for the Choctaw Indians in the present state of Oklahoma a hundred years ago, the government determined to establish military posts in that region to protect its red wards. Accordingly Col. Matthew Arbuckle, commandant at Fort Smith, Ark., was ordered to select sites for two new forts, one near the mouth of the Verdigris river in the valley of the Arkansas and the other near the mouth of the Kiamitia in the Red river country.

Arbuckle asked Col. Auguste P. Chouteau, a Creole French trader who was familiar with the region, to select the site for the post on the Verdigris and by the middle of April, 1824, Chouteau and Capt. Nathaniel Pryor, another well-known frontiersman of that day, had chosen the place. Within a few weeks Arbuckle had established there a stockaded fort and it was occupied by a force of 300 men. This was the beginning of Fort Gibson, named in honor of Col. George Gibson, then commissary general.

The first few years of Fort Gibson's existence were uneventful. It was a lonely outpost with canoe travel on the Grand river as the only means of communication with the outside world until 1828, when the first steamboat arrived. In 1832 Washington Irving visited the post, and in his book "A Tour of the Prairies" we are given some interesting glimpses of life at this far western military post.

In 1844 there was organized at Fort Gibson an expedition to return to their people some captive Kiowa and Wichita Indian children, who had been ransomed from the Osages, and Gen. Henry Leavenworth came to the fort to take command. This was the first appearance of the newly organized First dragoons which numbered among its officers such celebrities as Henry Dodge, Stephen W. Kearney, Edwin V. Sumner, Philip St. George Cooke and Jefferson Davis. George Catlin, the famous Indian painter, also accompanied the expedition.

From that time on Fort Gibson was an important post in the southwest and with the exception of three or four years just before the Civil war it was continuously garrisoned by regulars until 1890. During the Civil war it was the center of operations for the armies which were contesting for control of Indian Territory but after the war the frontier had been pushed so far beyond it that it gave place in importance to several other Oklahoma forts, notably Fort Sill. White Evening Frocks Afford Dainty Attire

White for evening was the dictate of the smartest couturiers at the beginning of the season, and white for evening is apparently the rule of fashion.

There are two kinds of white evening frocks, one that has the ingenuousness of youth, the other is sophistication that can be achieved only by the true artist in clothes.

In the first class are those adorable dance frocks of chiffon trimmed with gardenias or of tulle with wide full skirts like that of a Spanish dancer and port little bows of silver ribbon placed at a most strategic point.

Under the heading of frocks of sophistication come models developed in sumptuous brocades which have here and there a glint of metal woven in their pattern.

Equally beautiful and as dignified as they are graceful are gowns of white velvet bordered with fox or ermine or covered with a tracery of intricate embroidery done in silver and crystal.

In a bookseller's catalogue sent us we read: "The Wives of Henry the Eighth, Third Thousand." Surely there is some exaggeration here.—Boston Transcript.

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper nouns. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

"Supplce"

The meaning of the word supplce is "punishment; torture; pain and torment." As far back as 1653 the word was used by Blount to express the same meaning. There is also a passage in one of Mrs. Oliphant's works which reads: "It is easier to play the victim under the supplce inflicted by a pretty girl, than by two mature matrons."—Literary Digest.

Record Flawless Crystal

The largest flawless crystal sphere in the world was brought to New York from China, where it was cut from a perfect Burma crystal. It was nine inches in diameter and weighed 500 Troy ounces and 13 pennyweights. It has a little brother, or sister, fifteen-sixteenths of an inch smaller in diameter. The two are valued at $50,000.

Complete Text of President Coolidge's Inaugural Address

My Countrymen:

No one can contemplate current conditions without finding much that is satisfying and still more that is encouraging. Our own country is leading the world in the general readjustment to the results of the great conflict. Many of its burdens will bear heavily upon us for years, and the secondary and indirect effects we must expect to experience for some time. But we are beginning to comprehend more definitely what course should be pursued, what remedies ought to be applied, what actions should be taken for our deliverance, and are clearly manifesting a determined will faithfully and conscientiously to adopt these methods of relief. Already we have sufficiently rearranged our domestic affairs so that confidence has returned, business has revived, and we appear to be entering an era of prosperity which is gradually reaching into every part of the Nation. Realizing that we can not live unto ourselves alone, we have contributed of our resources and our counsel to the relief of the suffering and the settlement of the disputes among the European nations. Because of what America is and what America has done, a firmer courage, a higher hope, inspires the heart of all humanity.

These results have not occurred by mere chance. They have been secured by a constant and enlightened effort marked by many sacrifices and extending over many generations. We can not continue these brilliant successes in the future, unless we continue to learn from the past. It is necessary to keep the former experiences of our country both at home and abroad continually before us, if we are to have any science of government. If we wish to erect new structures, we must have a definite knowledge of the old foundations. We must realize that human nature is about the most constant thing in the universe and that the essentials of human relationship do not change. We must frequently take our bearings from these fixed stars of our political firmament if we expect to hold a true course. If we examine carefully what we have done, we can determine the more accurately what we can do.

We stand at the opening of the one hundred and fiftieth year since our national consciousness first asserted itself by unmistakable action with an array of force. The old sentiment of detached and dependent colonies disappeared in the new sentiment of a united and independent Nation. Men began to discard the narrow confines of a local charter for the broader opportunities of a national constitution. Under the eternal urge of freedom we became an independent Nation. A little less than 50 years later that freedom and independence were reasserted in the face of all the world, and guarded, supported, and secured by the Monroe doctrine. The narrow fringe of States along the Atlantic seaboard advanced its frontiers across the hills and plains of an intervening continent until it passed down the golden slope to the Pacific. We made freedom a birthright. We extended our domain over distant islands in order to safeguard our own interests and accepted the consequent obligation to bestow justice and liberty upon less favored peoples. In the defense of our own ideals and in the general cause of liberty we entered the Great War. When victory had been fully secured, we withdrew to our own shores uncompensated save in the consciousness of duty done.

Throughout all these experiences we have enlarged our freedom, we have strengthened our independence. We have been, and propose to be, more and more American. We believe that we can best serve our own country and most successfully discharge our obligations to humanity by continuing to be openly and candidly, intensely and scrupulously, American. If we have any heritage, it has been that. If we have any destiny, we have found it in that direction.

But if we wish to continue to be distinctively American, we must continue to make that term comprehensive enough to embrace the legitimate desires of a civilized and enlightened people determined in all their relations to pursue a conscientious and religious life. We can not permit ourselves to be narrowed and dwarfed by slogans and phrases. It is not the adjective, but the substantive, which is of real importance. It is not the name of the action, but the result of the action, which is the chief concern. It will be well not to be too much of pacifists and militarists. The physical configuration of the earth has separated us from all of the Old World, but the common brotherhood of man, the highest law of all our being, has united us by inseparable bonds with all humanity. Our country represents nothing but peaceful intentions toward all the earth, but it ought not to fail to maintain such a military force as comports with the dignity and security of a great people. It ought to be a balanced force, intensely modern, capable of defense by sea and land, beneath the surface and in the air. But it should be so conducted that all the world may see in it, not a menace, but an instrument of security and peace.

This Nation believes thoroughly in an honorable peace under which the rights of its citizens are to be everywhere protected. It has never found that the necessary enjoyment of such a peace could be maintained only by a great and threatening array of arms. In common with other nations it is now more determined than ever to promote peace through friendliness and good will, through mutual understandings and mutual forbearance. We have never practiced the policy of competitive armaments. We have recently committed ourselves by covenants with the other great nations to a limitation of our sea power. As one result of this, our Navy ranks larger, in comparison, than it ever did before. Removing the burden of expense and jealousy, which must always accrue from a keen rivalry, is one of the most effective methods of diminishing that unreasonable hysteria and misunderstanding which are the most potent means of fomenting war. This policy represents a new departure in the world. It is thought, an ideal, which has led to an entirely new line of action. It will not be easy to maintain. Some never moved from their old position, some are constantly slipping back to the old ways of thought and the old action of seizing a musket and relying on force. America has taken the lead in this new direction, and that lead America must continue to hold. If we expect others to rely on our fairness and justice we must show that we rely on their fairness and justice.

If we are to judge by past experience, there is much to be hoped for in international relations from frequent conferences and consultations. We have before us the beneficial results of the Washington conference and the various consultations recently held upon European affairs, some of which were in response to our suggestions and in some of which we were active participants. Even the failures can not but be accounted useful and an immeasurable advance over threatened or actual warfare. I am strongly in favor of a continuation of this policy, whenever conditions are such that there is even a promise that practical and favorable results might be secured.

In conformity with the principle that a display of reason rather than a threat of force should be the determining factor in the intercourse among nations, we have long advocated the peaceful settlement of disputes by methods of arbitration and have negotiated many treaties to secure that result. The same considerations should lead to our adherence to the Permanent Court of International Justice. Where great principles are involved, where great movements are under way which promise much for the welfare of humanity by reason of the very fact that many other nations have given such movements their actual support, we ought not to withhold our own sanction because of any small and inessential difference, but only upon the ground of the most important and compelling fundamental reasons. We can not barter away our independence or our sovereignty, but we ought to engage in no refinements of logic, no sophistries, and no subtleties, to argue away the undoubted duty of this country by reason of the might of its numbers, the power of its resources, and its position of leadership in the world, actively and comprehensively to signify its approval and to bear its full share of the responsibility of a candid and disinterested attempt at the establishment of a tribunal for the administration of even-handed justice between nation and nation. The weight of our enormous influence must be cast upon the side of a reign not of force but of law and trial, not by battle but by reason.

We have never any wish to interfere in the political conditions of any other countries. Especially are we determined not to become implicated in the political controversies of the Old World. With a great deal of hesitation, we have responded to appeals for help to maintain order, protect life and property, and establish responsible government in some of the small countries of the Western Hemisphere. Our private citizens have advanced large sums of money to assist in the necessary financing and relief of the Old World. We have not failed, nor shall we fail to respond, whenever necessary to mitigate human suffering and assist in the rehabilitation of distressed nations. These, too, are requirements which must be met by reason of our vast powers and the place we hold in the world.

Some of the best thought of mankind has long been seeking for a formula for permanent peace. Undoubtedly the clarification of the principles of international law would be helpful, and the efforts of scholars to prepare such a work for adoption by the various nations should have our sympathy and support. Much may be hoped for from the earnest studies of those who advocate the outlawing of aggressive war. But all these plans and preparations, these treaties and covenants, will not of themselves be adequate. One of the greatest dangers to peace lies in the economic pressure to which people find themselves subjected. One of the most practical things to be done in the world is to seek arrangements under which such pressure may be removed, so that opportunity may be renewed and hope may be revived. There must be some assurance that effort and endeavor will be followed by success and prosperity. In the making and financing of such adjustments there is not only an opportunity, but a real duty, for America to respond with her counsel and her resources. Conditions must be provided under which people can make a living and work out of their difficulties. But there is another element, more important than all, without which there can not be the slightest hope of a permanent peace. That element lies in the heart of humanity. Unless the desire for peace be cherished there, unless this fundamental and only natural source of brotherly love be cultivated to its highest degree, all artificial efforts will be in vain. Peace will come when there is realization that only under a reign of law, based on righteousness and supported by the religious conviction of the brotherhood of man, can there be any hope of a complete and satisfying life. Parchment will not hold the sword will fail, it is only the spiritual nature of man that can be triumphant.

It seems altogether probable that we can contribute most to these important objects by maintaining our position of political detachment and independence. We are not identified with any Old World interests. This position should be made more and more clear in our relations with all foreign countries. We are at peace with all of them. Our program is never to oppress, but always to assist. But while we do justice to others, we must require that justice be done to us. With us a treaty of peace means peace, and a treaty of amity means amity. We have made great contributions to the settlement of contentious differences in both Europe and Asia. But there is a very definite point beyond which we can not go. We can only help those who help themselves. Mindful of these limitations, the one great duty that stands out requires us to use our enormous powers to trim the balance of the world.

While we can look with a great deal of pleasure upon what we have done abroad, we must remember that our continued success in that direction depends upon what we do at home. Since its very outset, it has been found necessary to conduct our Government by means of political parties. That system would not have survived from generation to generation if it had not been fundamentally sound and provided the best instrumentalities for the most complete expression of the popular will. It is not necessary to claim that it has always worked perfectly. It is enough to know that nothing better has been devised. No one would deny that there should be full and free expression and an opportunity for independence of action within the party. There is no salvation in a narrow and bigoted partisanship. But if there is to be responsible party government, the party label must be something more than a mere device for securing office. Unless those who are elected under the same party designation are willing to assume that they can cooperate with each sufficient responsibility and exhibit sufficient loyalty and coherence, so other in the support of the broad general principles of the party platform, the election is merely a mockery, no decision is made at the polls, and there is no representation of the popular will. Common honesty and good faith with the people who support a party at the polls require that party, when it enters office, to assume the control of that portion of the Government to which it has been elected. Any other course is bad faith and a violation of the party pledges.

When the country has bestowed its confidence upon a party by making it a majority in the Congress, it has a right to expect such unity of action as will make the party majority an effective instrument of government. This administration has come into power with a very clear and definite mandate from the people. The expression of the popular will in favor of maintaining our constitutional guarantees was overwhelming and decisive. There was a manifestation of such faith in the integrity of the courts that we can consider that issue rejected for some time to come. Likewise, the policy of public ownership of railroads and certain electric utilities met with unmistakable defeat. The people declared that they wanted their rights to have not a political but a judicial determination, and their independence and freedom continued and supported by having the ownership and control of their property, not in the Government, but in their own hands. As they always do when they have a fair chance, the people demonstrated that they are sound and are determined to have a sound government.

When we turn from what was rejected to inquire what was accepted, the policy that stands out with the greatest clearness is that of economy in public expenditure with reduction and reform of taxation. The principle involved in this effort is that of conservation. The resources of this country are almost beyond computation. No mind can comprehend them. But the cost of our combined governments is likewise almost beyond definition. Not only those who are now making their tax returns, but those who meet the enhanced cost of existence in their monthly bills, know by hard experience what this great burden is and what it does. No matter what others may want, these people want a drastic economy. They are opposed to waste. They know that extravagance lengthens the hours and diminishes the rewards of their labor. I favor the policy of economy, not because I wish to save money, but because I wish to save people. The men and women of this country who toil are the ones who bear the cost of the Government. Every dollar that we carelessly waste means that their life will be so much the more meager. Every dollar that we prudently save means that their life will be so much the more abundant. Economy is idealism in its most practical form.

If extravagance were not reflected in taxation, and through taxation both directly and indirectly injuriously affecting the people, it would not be of so much consequence. The wisest and soundest method of solving our tax problem is through economy. Fortunately, of all the great nations this country is best in a position to adopt that simple remedy. We do not any longer need war-time revenues. The collection of any taxes which are not absolutely required, which do not beyond reasonable doubt contribute to the public welfare, is only a species of legalized larceny. Under this Republic the rewards of industry belong to those who earn them. The only constitutional tax is the tax which ministers to public necessity. The property of the country belongs to the people of the country. Their title is absolute. They do not support any privileged class; they do not need to maintain great military forces; they ought not to be burdened with a great array of public employees. They are not required to make any contribution to Government expenditures except that which they voluntarily assess upon themselves through the action of their own representatives. Whenever taxes become burdensome a remedy can be applied by the people; but if they do not act for themselves, no one can be very successful in acting for them.

The time is arriving when we can have further tax reduction, when, unless we wish to hamper the people in their right to earn a living we must have tax reform. The method of raising revenue ought not to impede the transaction of business; it ought to encourage it. I am opposed to extremely high rates, because they produce little or no revenue, because they are bad for the country, and, finally, because they are wrong. We can not finance the country, we can not improve social conditions, through any system of injustice, even if we attempt to inflict it upon the rich. Those who suffer the most harm will be the poor. This country believes in prosperity. It is absurd to suppose that it is envious of those who are already prosperous. The wise and correct course to follow in taxation and all other economic legislation is not to destroy those who have already secured success but to create conditions under which every one will have a better chance to be successful. The verdict of the country has been given on this question. That verdict stands. We shall do well to heed it.

These questions involve moral issues. We need not concern ourselves much about the rights of property if we will faithfully observe the rights of persons. Under our institutions their rights are supreme. It is not property but the right to hold property, both great and small, which our Constitution guarantees. All owners of property are charged with a service. These rights and duties have been revealed, through the conscience of society, to have a divine sanction. The very stability of our society rests upon production and conservation. For individuals or for governments to waste and squander their resources is to deny these rights and disregard these obligations. The result of economic dissipation to a nation is always moral decay.

These policies of better international understanding, greater economy, and lower taxes have contributed largely to peaceful and prosperous industrial relations. Under the helpful influences of restrictive immigration and a protective tariff, employment is plentiful, the rate of pay is high, and wage earners are in a state of contentment seldom before seen. Our transportation systems have been gradually recovering and have been able to meet all the requirements of the service. Agriculture has been very slow in reviving, but the price of cereals at last indicates that the day of its deliverance is at hand.

We are not without our problems, but our most important problem is not to secure new advantages but to maintain those which we already possess. Our system of government made up of three separate and independent departments, our divided sovereignty composed of Nation and State, the matchless wisdom that is enshrined in our Constitution, all these need constant effort and tireless vigilance for their protection and support.

In a republic the first rule for the guidance of the citizen is obedience to law. Under a despotism the law may be imposed upon the subject. He has no voice in its making, no influence in its administration, it does not represent him. Under a free government the citizen makes his own laws, chooses his own administrators, which do represent him. Those who want their rights respected under the Constitution and the law ought to set the example themselves of observing the Constitution and the law. While there may be those of high intelligence who violate the law at times, the barbarian and the defective always violate it. Those who disregard the rules of society are not exhibiting a superior intelligence, are not promoting freedom and independence, are not following the path of civilization, but are displaying the traits of ignorance, of servitude, of savagery, and treading the way that leads back to the jungle.

The essence of a republic is representative government. Our Congress represents the people and the States. In all legislative affairs it is the natural collaborator with the President. In spite of all the criticism which often falls to its lot, I do not hesitate to say that there is no more independent and effective legislative body in the world. It is, and should be, jealous of its prerogative. I welcome its cooperation, and expect to share with it not only the responsibility, but the credit, for our common effort to secure beneficial legislation.

These are some of the principles which America represents. We have not by any means put them fully into practice, but we have strongly signified our belief in them. The encouraging feature of our country is not that it has reached its determination to proceed in the right direction. It is true that we could, with profit, be less sectional and more national in our thought. It would be well if we could replace much that is only a false and ignorant prejudice with a true and enlightened pride of race. But the last election showed that appeals to class and nationality had little effect. We were all found loyal to a common citizenship. The fundamental precept of liberty is toleration. We can not permit any inquisition either within or without the law or apply any religious test to the holding of office. The mind of America must be forever free.

It is in such contemplations, my fellow countrymen, which are not exhaustive but only representative, that I find ample warrant for satisfaction and encouragement. We should not let the much that is to do obscure the much which has been done. The past and present show faith and hope and courage fully justified. Here stands our country, an example of tranquility at home, a patron of tranquility abroad. Here stands its Government, aware of its might but obedient to its conscience. Here it will continue to stand, seeking peace and prosperity, solicitous for the welfare of the wage earner, promoting enterprise, developing waterways and natural resources, attentive to the intuitive counsel of womanhood, encouraging education, desiring the advancement of religion, supporting the cause of justice and honor among the nations. America seeks no earthly empire built on blood and force. No ambition, no temptation, lures her to thought of foreign dominions. The legions which she sends forth are armed, not with the sword, but with the cross. The higher state to which she seeks the allegiance of all mankind is not of human, but divine origin. She cherishes no purpose save to merit the favor of Almighty God.

The Monks of Carthusian

Because of their freedom from disease, although working and going among the inhabitants of Crawford, Surrey, Eng., during a recent violent "Flu" epidemic, the Carthusian monks have received much attention in medical journals in England, and the United States.

Medical authorities began an investigation as to the cause of the healthfulness of the religious community. They found total immunity from tuberculosis and other diseases. After thorough study they decided the physical vigor and health of the monks was because of their almost exclusive use of natural foods.

In view of these discoveries, the health experts began applying the dietary principles employed to different diseases. An increased use of the "unsophisticated foods of Nature" was advocated.

Natural foods alone contain in balanced proportion the various elements found in the normal body. Wheat is the only food containing all of them, and Whole Grain Wheat retains them intact. That is why its consistent use means perfect replenishment, or perfect health.

Complete Text of President Coolidge's Inaugural Address

My Countrymen:

No one can contemplate current conditions without finding much that is satisfying and still more that is encouraging. Our own country is leading the world in the general readjustment to the results of the great conflict. Many of its burdens will bear heavily upon us for years, and the secondary and indirect effects we must expect to experience for some time. But we are beginning to comprehend more definitely what course should be pursued, what remedies ought to be applied, what actions should be taken for our deliverance, and are clearly manifesting a determined will faithfully and conscientiously to adopt these methods of relief. Already we have sufficiently rearranged our domestic affairs so that confidence has returned, business has revived, and we appear to be entering an era of prosperity which is gradually reaching into every part of the Nation. Realizing that we can not live unto ourselves alone, we have contributed of our resources and our counsel to the relief of the suffering and the settlement of the disputes among the European nations. Because of what America is and what America has done, a firmer courage, a higher hope, inspires the heart of all humanity.

These results have not occurred by mere chance. They have been secured by a constant and enlightened effort marked by many sacrifices and extending over many generations. We can not continue these brilliant successes in the future, unless we continue to learn from the past. It is necessary to keep the former experiences of our country both at home and abroad continually before us, if we are to have any science of government. If we wish to erect new structures, we must have a definite knowledge of the old foundations. We must realize that human nature is about the most constant thing in the universe and that the essentials of human relationship do not change. We must frequently take our bearings from these fixed stars of our political firmament if we expect to hold a true course. If we examine carefully what we have done, we can determine the more accurately what we can do.

We stand at the opening of the one hundred and fiftieth year since our national consciousness first asserted itself by unmistakable action with an array of force. The old sentiment of detached and dependent colonies disappeared in the new sentiment of a united and independent Nation. Men began to discard the narrow confines of a local charter for the broader opportunities of a national constitution. Under the eternal urge of freedom we became an independent Nation. A little less than 50 years later that freedom and independence were reasserted in the face of all the world, and guarded, supported, and secured by the Monroe doctrine. The narrow fringe of States along the Atlantic seaboard advanced its frontiers across the hills and plains of an intervening continent until it passed down the golden slope to the Pacific. We made freedom a birthright. We extended our domain over distant islands in order to safeguard our own interests and accepted the consequent obligation to bestow justice and liberty upon less favored peoples. In the defense of our own ideals and in the general cause of liberty we entered the Great War. When victory had been fully secured, we withdrew to our own shores uncompensated save in the consciousness of duty done.

Throughout all these experiences we have enlarged our freedom, we have strengthened our independence. We have been, and propose to be, more and more American. We believe that we can best serve our own country and most successfully discharge our obligations to humanity by continuing to be openly and candidly, intensely and scrupulously, American. If we have any heritage, it has been that. If we have any destiny, we have found it in that direction.

But if we wish to continue to be distinctively American, we must continue to make that term comprehensive enough to embrace the legitimate desires of a civilized and enlightened people determined in all their relations to pursue a conscientious and religious life. We can not permit ourselves to be narrowed and dwarfed by slogans and phrases. It is not the adjective, but the substantive, which is of real importance. It is not the name of the action, but the result of the action, which is the chief concern. It will be well not to be too much of pacifists and militarists. The physical configuration of the earth has separated us from all of the Old World, but the common brotherhood of man, the highest law of all our being, has united us by inseparable bonds with all humanity. Our country represents nothing but peaceful intentions toward all the earth, but it ought not to fail to maintain such a military force as comports with the dignity and security of a great people. It ought to be a balanced force, intensely modern, capable of defense by sea and land, beneath the surface and in the air. But it should be so conducted that all the world may see in it, not a menace, but an instrument of security and peace.

This Nation believes thoroughly in an honorable peace under which the rights of its citizens are to be everywhere protected. It has never found that the necessary enjoyment of such a peace could be maintained only by a great and threatening array of arms. In common with other nations it is now more determined than ever to promote peace through friendliness and good will, through mutual understandings and mutual forbearance. We have never practiced the policy of competitive armaments. We have recently committed ourselves by covenants with the other great nations to a limitation of our sea power. As one result of this, our Navy ranks larger, in comparison, than it ever did before. Removing the burden of expense and jealousy, which must always accrue from a keen rivalry, is one of the most effective methods of diminishing that unreasonable hysteria and misunderstanding which are the most potent means of fomenting war. This policy represents a new departure in the world. It is thought, an ideal, which has led to an entirely new line of action. It will not be easy to maintain. Some never moved from their old position, some are constantly slipping back to the old ways of thought and the old action of seizing a musket and relying on force. America has taken the lead in this new direction, and that lead America must continue to hold. If we expect others to rely on our fairness and justice we must show that we rely on their fairness and justice.

If we are to judge by past experience, there is much to be hoped for in international relations from frequent conferences and consultations. We have before us the beneficial results of the Washington conference and the various consultations recently held upon European affairs, some of which were in response to our suggestions and in some of which we were active participants. Even the failures can not but be accounted useful and an immeasurable advance over threatened or actual warfare. I am strongly in favor of a continuation of this policy, whenever conditions are such that there is even a promise that practical and favorable results might be secured.

In conformity with the principle that a display of reason rather than a threat of force should be the determining factor in the intercourse among nations, we have long advocated the peaceful settlement of disputes by methods of arbitration and have negotiated many treaties to secure that result. The same considerations should lead to our adherence to the Permanent Court of International Justice. Where great principles are involved, where great movements are under way which promise much for the welfare of humanity by reason of the very fact that many other nations have given such movements their actual support, we ought not to withhold our own sanction because of any small and inessential difference, but only upon the ground of the most important and compelling fundamental reasons. We can not barter away our independence or our sovereignty, but we ought to engage in no refinements of logic, no sophistries, and no subterfuges, to argue away the undoubted duty of this country by reason of the might of its numbers, the power of its resources, and its position of leadership in the world, actively and comprehensively to signify its approval and to bear its full share of the responsibility of a candid and disinterested attempt at the establishment of a tribunal for the administration of even-handed justice between nation and nation. The weight of our enormous influence must be cast upon the side of a reign not of force but of law and trial, not by battle but by reason.

We have never any wish to interfere in the political conditions of any other countries. Especially are we determined not to become implicated in the political controversies of the Old World. With a great deal of hesitation, we have responded to appeals for help to maintain order, protect life and property, and establish responsible government in some of the small countries of the Western Hemisphere. Our private citizens have advanced large sums of money to assist in the necessary financing and relief of the Old World. We have not failed, nor shall we fail to respond, whenever necessary to mitigate human suffering and assist in the rehabilitation of distressed nations. These, too, are requirements which must be met by reason of our vast powers and the place we hold in the world.

Some of the best thought of mankind has long been seeking for a formula for permanent peace. Undoubtedly the clarification of the principles of international law would be helpful, and the efforts of scholars to prepare such a work for adoption by the various nations should have our sympathy and support. Much may be hoped for from the earnest studies of those who advocate the outlawing of aggressive war. But all these plans and preparations, these treaties and covenants, will not of themselves be adequate. One of the greatest dangers to peace lies in the economic pressure to which people find themselves subjected. One of the most practical things to be done in the world is to seek arrangements under which such pressure may be removed, so that opportunity may be renewed and hope may be revived. There must be some assurance that effort and endeavor will be followed by success and prosperity. In the making and financing of such adjustments there is not only an opportunity, but a real duty, for America to respond with her counsel and her resources. Conditions must be provided under which people can make a living and work out of their difficulties. But there is another element, more important than all, without which there can not be the slightest hope of a permanent peace. That element lies in the heart of humanity. Unless the desire for peace be cherished there, unless this fundamental and only natural source of brotherly love be cultivated to its highest degree, all artificial efforts will be in vain. Peace will come when there is realization that only under a reign of law, based on righteousness and supported by the religious conviction of the brotherhood of man, can there be any hope of a complete and satisfying life. Parchment will not tell the story; will fail, it is only the spiritual nature of man that can be triumphant.

It seems altogether probable that we can contribute most to these important objects by maintaining our position of political detachment and independence. We are not identified with any Old World interests. This position should be made more and more clear in our relations with all foreign countries. We are at peace with all of them. Our program is never to oppress, but always to assist. But while we do justice to others, we must require that justice be done to us. With us a treaty of peace means peace, and a treaty of amity means amity. We have made great contributions to the settlement of contentious differences in both Europe and Asia. But there is a very definite point beyond which we can not go. We can only help those who help themselves. Mindful of these limitations, the one great duty that stands out requires us to use our enormous powers to trim the balance of the world.

While we can look with a great deal of pleasure upon what we have done abroad, we must remember that our continued success in that direction depends upon what we do at home. Since its very outset, it has been found necessary to conduct our Government by means of political parties. That system would not have survived from generation to generation if it had not been fundamentally sound and provided the best instrumentalities for the most complete expression of the popular will. It is not necessary to claim that it has always worked perfectly. It is enough to know that nothing better has been devised. No one would deny that there should be full and free expression and an opportunity for independence of action within the party. There is no salvation in a narrow and bigoted partisanship. But if there is to be responsible party government, the party label must be something more than a mere device for securing office. Unless those who are elected under the same party designation are willing to assume that they can cooperate with each sufficient responsibility and exhibit sufficient loyalty and coherence, so other in the support of the broad general principles of the party platform, the election is merely a mockery, no decision is made at the polls, and there is no representation of the popular will. Common honesty and good faith with the people who support a party at the polls require that party, when it enters office, to assume the control of that portion of the Government to which it has been elected. Any other course is bad faith and a violation of the party pledges.

When the country has bestowed its confidence upon a party by making it a majority in the Congress, it has a right to expect such unity of action as will make the party majority an effective instrument of government. This administration has come into power with a very clear and definite mandate from the people. The expression of the popular will in favor of maintaining our constitutional guarantees was overwhelming and decisive. There was a manifestation of such faith in the integrity of the courts that we can consider that issue rejected for some time to come. Likewise, the policy of public ownership of railroads and certain electric utilities met with unmistakable defeat. The people declared that they wanted their rights to have not a political but a judicial determination, and their independence and freedom continued and supported by having the ownership and control of their property, not in the Government, but in their own hands. As they always do when they have a fair chance, the people demonstrated that they are sound and are determined to have a sound government.

When we turn from what was rejected to inquire what was accepted, the policy that stands out with the greatest clearness is that of economy in public expenditure with reduction and reform of taxation. The principle involved in this effort is that of conservation. The resources of this country are almost beyond computation. No mind can comprehend them. NEW CONGRESS SEES THE REPUBLICANS IN COMPLETE CONTROL

LA FOLLETTE OPPOSITION WAS GREATLY WEAKENED BY RE- SULTS OF LAST ELECTION

STRAIGHT-OUT PARTY RULE IS THE EXPECTATION OF LEADERS

(By United Press)
Washington, March 4.—The turbulent sixty-eighth Congress was shorn of its power automatically at noon today and the new Republican Congress—swept in behind the Coolidge landslide last November—assumed legislative authority over the nation.

The change marked the passing of coalition legislation and heralded the coming of straight-out Republican rule.

At noon the gavels of President Protemore Cummins in the Senate and Speaker Gillett in the House fell for the last time. With a tap the old Congress, which had adopted a Democratic tax bill, passed an insurance soldier bonus and repudiated in many instances the Republican legislative program, was ushered out. The new Congress, whose first duty will be to plan a new tax reduction, came in.

The presiding officers stepped down from their places. Cummins handed his gavel over to Vice President Charles G. Dawes, who is to govern the Senate for the next four years. The House of Representatives, not being a continuing body like the Senate, did not remain in session and may not convene again until December, unless President Coolidge calls it especially to reduce taxes. The House chamber was left vacant while members fled over the Senate to witness the inaugural ceremonies.

Many new faces were seen in both chambers and many faces were there that will not be seen again. The fatal fall of ballots had lopped off many heads and brought new men out of obscurity into the limelight.

Just what a numerical change was wrought can be understood from the following comparison of the strengths of the political parties in the old Congress and the new:

Senate
	New	Old
Republicans	55	52
Democrats	40	42
Farmer-Laborites	1	2

House
	New	Old
Republicans	245	222
Democrats	183	208
Independents	1	1
Farmer-Laborites	2	1
Socialists	2	1

But there is even a greater change than the numbers can tell. The sixty-eighth Congress came in two years ago with a bang. Senator Robert M. LaFollette, recent presidential opponent of Mr. Coolidge, had acquired control of a strong little group of Republicans which with the help of the Democrats upon some legislation could overrule the Republicans.

The LaFollette group dominated the entire session, just closing. They first tied up organization of the House, demanding liberalization of the rules, and elected a Democrat the head of the Senate interstate commerce committee.

The closing Congress will be known in history chiefly for its sensational series of investigations. The Teapot Dome inquiry and the Department of Justice investigation resulted in the resignation of two members of the President's cabinet, Attorney General Daugherty and Secretary of the Navy Denby. A score of other investigations were undertaken, ending less conspicuously.

The tax bill probably was the outstanding piece of legislation enacted, even overshadowing its companion piece, the soldier bonus. In enacting the tax bill the Congress ignored the recommendations of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and provided less reduction for higher incomes than for small incomes. The President termed the bill 'unsatisfactory' when he signed it. Provision also was made in the measure for publicity of income tax returns.

A new immigration bill was passed excluding Japanese. No important farm relief legislation was sanctioned. Early in the session the Norris-Sinclair bill was defeated in the Senate and the McNary-Haugen bill was thrown out in the House.

In the new Congress, LaFollette's strength will be so impaired that he will not be able to use it to real advantage. Even since the election he has not taken an active part in legislative affairs. His groups in both houses likewise were less in the foreground.

BLOCS FAIL TO EFFECT AGREEMENT

Washington, March 4.—Deadlocked to the last, the 68th Congress concluded today, leaving a mass of legislation unfinished. A little before noon the gavel of the presiding officer in the House and Senate fell, sending out the whole divided camps and heralding the coming breakout of the Republican rule. Down to the last wire the strong blocs which started off two years ago in a tie-up maintained their antagonistic position. Farm relief, Muscle Shoals, prohibition enforcement and other legislation was caught in an irretrievable tangle.

The deadlock was so hopeless that legislation was called off before the last session usually held just before inauguration day. Meeting at 10 a. m. the House cleaned up the last remaining appropriation bill, the second deficiency which denies a promiscuous item for government expense.

While the house always adjourned at 11:45 a. m. to attend the last president's inaugural ceremony in the Senate Chamber, the Senate, being a continuous body, has to remain in session. After the inauguration a message from the President summoning an extra session of the upper house to confirm his cabinet nominations is always ready and the Senate thereupon adjourned until the following day.

relations, he said, were "peaceful and prosperous"; employment plentiful, wages good, and wage-earners contented, "under the helpful influences of restrictive immigration and a protective tariff"; the railroads recovering; and that agriculture, though "slow in reviving," had in the recent rise in the price of cereals indicated "that the day of its deliverance was at hand."

The President's address showed evidences of the long hours he had spent in outlining what he wished to say and then in reducing what he said to the brevity he so much admires. The typical Coolidge style reached in his address today new heights of epigrammatic vigor and precision.

As a guiding principle in international relations he said, "If we expect others to rely on our fairness and justice we must show that we rely on their fairness and justice."

Taxation above that absolutely required to run the government he termed "legalized larceny."

And in conclusion he declared, "Here stands our country, an example of tranquility at home, a patron of tranquility abroad. She cherishes no purpose save to merit the favor of Almighty God."

In the course of his address the President outlined his views on most of the important questions now before the country.

Of national defense he said: "Our country represents nothing but peaceful intentions toward all the earth, but it ought not to fail to maintain such a military force as comports with the dignity and security of a great people. It ought to be a balanced force, intensely modern, capable of defense by sea and land, beneath the surface and in the air."

Of arms limitation: "Removing the burden of expense and jealousy, which must always accrue from a keen rivalry, is one of the most effective methods of diminishing that unreasonable hysteria and misunderstanding which are the most potent means of fostering war."

Party regularity: "Common honesty and good faith with the people who support a party at the polls require that party, when it enters office, to assume the control of that portion of the government to which it has been elected."

Taxes: "The time is arriving when we can have further tax reduction, when, unless we wish to hamper the people in their right to earn a living, we must have tax reform."

Law enforcement: "In a republic the first rule for the guidance of the citizen is obedience to law."

Congress: "In spite of all the criticism which often falls to its lot, I do not hesitate to say that there is no more independent and effective legislative body in the world."

Religious freedom: "The fundamental precept of liberty is toleration. We cannot permit any inquisition either within or without the law or apply any religious test to the holding of office."

forward to be sworn.

This concluded the ceremonies inside, and a slow march to the center front steps of the capital where huge stands had been erected was begun. The stands—of Corinthian architecture—were larger than at the last inauguration and accommodations were made to seat 8,000. Thousands of others covered the big square.

The marine band played a solemn march as the little procession headed by Mr. Coolidge and Dawes, members of the supreme court and senators and congressmen wended their ways down to the platform.

In the center at the front, high above the seated audience, was a stand upon which there lay an ancient Bible—the one upon which George Washington placed his hand to give his oath as first President of the United States.

Dates in Coolidge's Career

Here are the milestones of President Coolidge's life:
1872, July 4—Born at Plymouth, Vt.
1895—Graduated from Amherst College.
1897—Admitted to the bar and started law practice.
1899—Elected city councilman, Northampton, Mass., his first political office.
1900—City Solicitor, Northampton.
1903—Clerk of county courts.
1904—Chairman, Republican city committee, Northampton.
1905, Oct. 4—Married Grace A. Goodhue, of Burlington, Vt.
1907—State representative.
1910—Mayor, Northampton.
1912—State Senator.
1914—President of State Senate.
1916—Lieutenant Governor of Massachusetts.
1919—Governor of Massachusetts.
1920—Vice President of the United States.
1923, Aug. 3—President of the United States, by death of President Harding.
1924, Nov. 4—Elected President of the United States.

The Bible belongs to the St. John's Masonic Lodge of New York and is furnished for each inauguration.

Without further ado the oath was administered by Chief Justice Taft while the silent thousands stood with bowed heads. When the last word came through the amplifiers, the marine band swung into the "Star Spangled Banner" and the crowd cheered. Mr. Coolidge then began his inaugural address. When it was concluded the band played "America" and the party left the stand.

Souvenir hunters crowded forward to take what they could find. The band dispersed and the marines went back to their barracks. The President rode back to the White House, swiftly now, escorted only by secret service men. The new senate adjourned to meet again tomorrow.

A new administration of the United States had been launched for four more years. The inauguration was over.

BEAUTIFUL DAY GREET'S INAUGURATION

Washington, March 4.—Smiling kind a beautiful day greeted Calvin Coolidge when he arose today to begin his duties as 31st President.

From the standpoint of the Senate the weather attending the president's new term of office was more propitious than that of any national executive since 1901, when William McKinley on a beautiful day took the oath for his second term.

In the hotels and throughout the residence section of the city some twenty thousand visitors from all parts of the country were assembled to participate in the day's activities.

It was a holiday for the banks and departments, but many business houses remained opened. The business folks were generally more or less discreet because the President had refused to make more of a gala occasion of the inauguration. They recalled the bygone days when 100,000 visitors came to Washington to see our President take the oath and left hundreds of thousands of dollars behind them when they returned home. So far as outward appearances signify it was just another work day for Calvin Coolidge.

BRILLIANT BUT UNPRETENTIOUS PAGEANT

Washington, March 4.—At the East portico of the Capitol of Washington in a brilliant, but unpretentious pageant President Coolidge today renewed his oath as President of the United States. Standing upon the steps of the Capitol the President affirmed his pledge of office and then laid down a three-fold program for his administration—economy, tax reduction and a co-operation with the nations of the world.

Bareheaded in the still March breeze, Chief Justice Taft, himself a former President, now garbed in the black robe of his new office, stood beside him and administered the oath.

The President placed his right hand upon the Bible which his mother read to him as a child and pledged himself again to defend the Constitution and the nation.

Immediately after the oath, the President began his inaugural address. His unstressed words led out through a microphone before him to all over the nation through 25 radio stations. For the first time in the history of the nation, an inaugural ceremony was broadcast to millions of absent spectators. Between twenty-five and forty thousand people were in the Capitol Square where Presidents of history have launched their administration. Thousands of others lined the mile-long expanse of Pennsylvania avenue from the White House to the Capitol.

PRESIDENT SPOKE 41 MINUTES

Washington, March 4.—The President spoke for forty-one minutes, concluding at 1:42 p. m.

With Senator Curtis, Republican leader and military aide, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge were escorted from the platform and entered the White House car, starting back up Pennsylvania avenue to the executive mansion.

Two soldiers stood below the president at attention holding American flags. Mr. Coolidge looked over the vast crowd again and at his manuscript again as he spoke. He frequently used a sweeping gesture of his right arm to stress some word or phrase. Every syllable of his words could be heard throughout the audience. When he called upon the government to maintain itself "scrupulously American" in its foreign policy, the crowd burst into its first applause. Again applause greeted his suggestion that America continue its lead in disarming, a proposal which the Senate only a few hours before had declined to indorse. By far the greatest applause was for his recommendation for further reduction of taxes.

STRICT BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Washington, March 4.—Calvin Coolidge and Charles G. Dawes today assumed their new responsibilities as head of the American government for the next four years, and in taking the oath of office and laying down their programs each pledged himself to strict business administration—the president to effect lower taxes, more economy and greater co-operation with foreign powers; the vice-president to effect a change of Senate procedure such as will prevent prolonged delays in putting through beneficial legislation.

It was a glorious day for the notable event, the most favorable day in two decades. Thousands of people lined the historical avenue leading from the Capitol to the White House and cheered the President and his new right-hand man.

Other thousands gathered to hear the President deliver his address and millions were permitted to hear the address through one of the most extensive hook-ups in the history of radio.

The 68th Congress adjourned at noon with word just before it passed out of existence that the last measure signed by President Coolidge was the pay boosting measure raising salaries of members of Congress $2,500 annually, effective next year.

President Coolidge's speech was well received by the great crowd that stood in the chill air to hear him.

NEW CONGRESS SEES THE REPUBLICANS IN COMPLETE CONTROL

LA FOLLETTE OPPOSITION WAS GREATLY WEAKENED BY RE-SULTS OF LAST ELECTION

STRAIGHT-OUT PARTY RULE IS THE EXPECTATION OF LEADERS

(By United Press)
Washington, March 4.—The turbulent sixty-eighth Congress was shorn of its power automatically at noon today and the new Republican Congress—swept in behind the Coolidge landslide last November—assumed legislative authority over the nation.

The change marked the passing of coalition legislation and heralded the coming of straight-out Republican rule.

At noon the gavels of President Protemore Cummins in the Senate and Speaker Gillett in the House fell for the last time. With a tap the old Congress, which had adopted a Democratic tax bill, passed an insurance soldier bonus and repudiated in many instances the Republican legislative program, was ushered out. The new Congress, whose first duty will be to plan a new tax reduction, came in.

The presiding officers stepped down from their places. Cummins handed his gavel over to Vice President Charles G. Dawes, who is to govern the Senate for the next four years. The House of Representatives, not being a continuing body like the Senate, did not remain in session and may not convene again until December, unless President Coolidge calls it especially to reduce taxes. The House chamber was left vacant while members filed over the Senate to witness the inaugural ceremonies.

Many new faces were seen in both chambers and many faces were there that will not be seen again. The fatal fall of ballots had lopped off many heads and brought new men out of obscurity into the limelight.

Just what a numerical change was wrought can be understood from the following comparison of the strengths of the political parties in the old Congress and the new:

Senate
	New	Old
Republicans	55	52
Democrats	40	42
Farmer-Laborites	1	2
House
	New	Old
Republicans	245	222
Democrats	183	208
Independents	1	1
Farmer-Laborites	2	1
Socialists	2	1

But there is even a greater change than the numbers can tell. The sixty-eighth Congress came in two years ago with a bang. Senator Robert M. La Follette, recent presidential opponent of Mr. Coolidge, had acquired control of a strong little group of Republicans which with the help of the Democrats upon some legislation could overrule the Republicans.

The La Follette group dominated the entire session, just closing. They first tied up organization of the House, demanding liberalization of the rules, and elected a Democrat the head of the Senate interstate commerce committee.

In enacting the tax bill the Congress ignored the recommendations of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and provided less reduction for higher incomes than for small incomes. The President termed the bill "unsatisfactory" when he signed it. Provision also was made in the measure for publicity of income tax returns.

A new immigration bill was passed excluding Japanese. No important farm relief legislation was sanctioned. Early in the session the Norris-Sinclair bill was defeated in the Senate and the McNary-Haugen bill was thrown out in the House.

In the new Congress, La Follette's strength will be so impaired that he will not be able to use it to real advantage. Even since the election he has not taken an active part in legislative affairs. His groups in both

EVANGELISM OF OLD CRITICISED

People Today Seem to be in Revolt
Against Some of Methods Used

REV. E. A. VALIANT, SPEAKER

Opens Christian Life Mission at Baptist Churches
Here

People today seem to be in an open revolt against some of the methods used in evangelism in days gone by, is the opinion of Rev. Edgar A. Valiant of Minneapolis, who is conducting a Christian Life Mission with the American and Swedish Baptist churches here.

Before a large audience at the First Baptist church last night, Rev. Valiant said: "You cannot make me believe that men are opposed to a movement that has for its purpose the deepening of spiritual life and the enlightenment of folk living a Christian life. The principles of the Kingdom of Heaven are just as applicable today as they were in Jesus' day. He tested them out in His relationship with men and passed them on to us. People who on Sunday demand that a preacher shall preach the pure and unadulterated truths of the gospel Jesus taught, and then go home and fight like the devil all week are not living Christian lives."

"These great truths are for present day purposes in the home, school, office, store and all the realms of life. The business man who says the Golden Rule will not work in business either has never put it to the test or does not know what he is talking about."

Missionary Society
The Missionary society of the First Congregational church will hold its regular monthly meeting Friday afternoon 3 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Walter Folsom, 315 3rd street North. Mrs. Conrad will direct the study of "A Strong Nation," from Chapter V of Ming Kwong.

Past Matrons Club
The Past Matrons Club O. E. S. was entertained at the home of Mrs. J. P. Anderson yesterday afternoon. After the regular business meeting a social hour followed. Mrs. Anderson served delicious refreshments.

Clara Lutheran Church
The ladies aid of the Clara Lutheran church will meet Thursday at 2:30 o'clock in the church parlors, and will be entertained by Mrs. P. A. Johnson and Mrs. K. O. Bergstrand.
The Luther League will meet in the church on Thursday evening.

KERMESS BAZAAR OF THE ELKS

The Elks lodge will give a Kermess bazaar April 15, 16, 17 and 18 in their club rooms. Every inch of space in their spacious quarters of the third floor of the Citizens State bank building will be used to advantage.

Attractions will be of the most novel kind and every cent realized above expenses will go into the convention fund of the Elks. The Elks state convention in Brainerd is daily assuming larger proportions.

Committees appointed a month ago for this kermess bazaar are functioning actively. At the recent meeting of the State Association officers and committee heads at Minneapolis Elks club the tentative dates for the convention in Brainerd are set for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 20, 21 and 22.

PATROLMEN IN AN EXAMINATION

Civil Service Quiz Held by State
Forester E. H. Rhodes at Court House

13 MEN ARE EXAMINED

Woodcraft, Fire Fighting And Other Subjects Considered by Applicants

State Forester E. H. Rhodes held a civil service examination for patrolmen in the Brainerd district, on Tuesday morning at the farmers' room in the court house.

The following thirteen men took the examination: Clifford Reed, Pine River; Vernon Bowman, Emily; Neil Bowman, Emily; Palmer Bjorkness, Emily; Leslie Cahill and Scott Cahill, Mildred; Theodore Hauggorde, Pine River; George B. Jenkins, Cross Lake; Ernest P. Lound, Daggett Brook; Francis Coughney, Brainerd; Hans G. Skau, Deerwood; Jacob Preston, and N. D. Anderson, Brainerd.

Six or seven patrolmen are needed in Mr. Rhodes' district. Several who had this work last year will be retained, the balance will be selected from those who passed Tuesday's examination, and will be put to work between April 1st to 15th. Others of the successful applicants may be used in other districts in the northern part of the state, said Mr. Rhodes.

The examination is considered quite difficult, and goes into the work of a patrolman very thoroughly. It deals with woodcraft, fire fighting and other subjects with which a patrolman must be familiar.

Lively's stock of Ford parts is complete in every detail. Open day and night.

CITY DAIRY INSPECTOR
Report For February Submitted to Council, 22 Dairy Plants
Inspected

Following is the monthly report of the city dairy inspector for the month of February, as submitted to the city council at its regular meeting on Monday night:

Approximate number of hours spent in milk inspection service, 140; approximate number of miles traveled in milk inspection service, 410.

Out of 14 samples of milk tested for butter fat, four were found illegal and of 11 samples of cream given the same test, six were found illegal. In sediment tests 15 samples were found clean, and 10 samples were found to be dirty.

The following herds were given tuberculosis tests. No cows in the herds were condemned: Joshua Peterson, H. Fenske, I. Swift, M. Lund, H. Hendrickson, and Z. Fremling.

Twenty-two dairy plants were inspected and found to be satisfactory, as follows: J. Bloom, S. I. Clauson, P. Dryburgh, W. Wilber, Gust Erickson, J. Spillman, O. Metzger, E. Leupker, Swan Peterson, V. Johnson, P. Larson, F. Wolvert, P. A. Nelson, H. Tangen, W. T. Canniff, Floyd Hall, Fred Larson, August Nelson, Andrew Erickson, Hagberg and Johnson, H. B. Olson and L. Bourassa.

Two hundred cows were given the physical examination in the following herds: Hagberg and Johnson, August Nelson, W. T. Canniff, H. Fenske, Z. Fremling, F. Wolvert, Fred Larson, E. Leupker, O. Metzger, P. A. Nelson, W. Wilber, S. Clauson, P. Dryburgh, Floyd Hall, H. B. Olson, L. Bourassa, I. Swift, J. Peterson, V. Johnson, Swan Peterson, P. Larson, G. Erickson, H. Tangen, Andrew Erickson, M. Lund and J. Bloom.

Twelve applications for milk and cream licenses were granted during the month on recommendation of the dairy inspector.

APPEAL FROM THE NEAR EAST

Refugee Camps of Children in Dire Need

BRAINERD ASKED TO HELP

Contributions May be Made to Mrs.
J. P. Early, Mrs. E. H. Jones,
Miss Lillian Irwin

With the cablegram that came from Macedonia to the United States asking for funds to supply, at least, one meal a day for the refugee camp children of the Near East, came a copy to Brainerd from the New York headquarters, which also stated that "Available income is barely sufficient to care for the orphan children in our institutions."

These children for whom Brainerd has been asked to help, are those whose homes are in refugee camps in the Near East and who are in need. It is those of many wistful faces who peer through gates of American orphanages which cannot offer them a haven for lack of funds.

Friends in Brainerd who are willing to help, if even in a small way, are urged to make contributions at once to any of the following ladies: Mrs. J. P. Early, at the court house, Mrs. E. H. Jones, at the Jones store on Front street, or Miss Lillian Irwin at the Brainerd Hardware Company.

The letter coming to Brainerd, asking for help for Near East refugees was sent after consultation with and at the request of the Minnesota State Committee, of which Sumner T. McKnight, of Minneapolis, is treasurer, and to whom contributions may be sent.

The national officers, all of whom are in New York, are James L. Barton, chairman, Cleveland H. Dodge, honorary treasurer, John H. Finley, vice chairman, Charles V. Vickery, general secretary, Henry Morgenthau, former ambassador to Turkey, director.

SHERLUND CO. IN NEW AGENCY

Popular Automobile Dealers Take

L. W. SHERLUND IN STATEMENT

Will Continue to Carry Large Stock of Chevrolet Parts, And Give Service to Chevrolet Owners

The Sherlund Company, one of the pioneer automobile dealers in the city, has just completed arrangements for the agency of the Oakland car, thus continuing as a member of the General Motors big family.

L. W. Sherlund, in speaking of the new arrangements, said: "I have been a pioneer in the automobile business and have watched with growing interest the progress made by the different manufacturers of automobiles, and I am thoroughly convinced that what the people want most today is a car that will stand up under all conditions of grueling work, through heavy roads and for the high speeds to which a car is subjected on good roads, and not a car where first cost is so low that the materials and workmanship in it cannot give the service that it should."

"If by adding a small amount in first cost, our customers can save more than the difference in repairs, it is obvious they are better served."

"I believe that the Oakland automobile, one of the great General Motors family, is such a car, not the cheapest that can be made, but the cheapest when a year or more of service is considered."

"The Sherlund Company can now offer to our friends a car built with the best in advanced engineering design, material and workmanship, for a price less than other cars in its class."

"We shall still maintain a large stock of Chevrolet parts and will continue to give the best of service to our host of Chevrolet owners."

Among Speakers

The Pelican Better Farming Club met at noon Tuesday at the Sigurd Brenno home, the ladies of the club serving a delicious dinner to about fifty in attendance.

The program which followed was a very interesting one, and included an address on buying at home, by W. A. M. Johnstone, clerk of the district court; an instructive talk on rural credits, by County Agent E. G. Roth, and one on the value of farm bureau clubs by Charles Scranton, president of the Twin Lakes Club. Mr. Scranton also furnished a part of the musical program.

WALTER HILL WILL MOVE HIS OFFICES TO ST. PAUL, REPORT

St. Paul, March 4.—Walter Hill, son of the "Empire Builder," is expected to establish offices in St. Paul. This information was learned when it was definitely announced that Mr. Hill will make his residence at the former Evans home on Summit ave.

At present his offices are in New York. Because most of his business is in the west it is believed that Mr. Hill is anxious to locate his offices nearer his business.

He expects to move into his new Summit ave. home about March 15. He has discussed the matter with Arthur Michaud of the Gopher Mutual Casualty Co.

This concern will move into the Builders Exchange building about March 15 and it is possible that Mr. Hill will establish his office in the headquarters of this insurance company.

Was Wife of Dr. Lum of Duluth;
Passed Away in Daytona,
Florida

Word has been received in the city of the death of Mrs. C. E. Lum, wife of Dr. Lum, of Duluth, which occurred at Daytona, Florida, on Monday. Death resulted from pneumonia.

The remains were brought back to Duluth for burial, but the time of the funeral could not be learned. Dr. Lum is a brother of Leon Lum, well known in Brainerd, who has a summer home at Nisswa.

NERVES ALL UNSTRUNG?

Brainerd Folks Should Find the Cause and Correct It

Are you all worn out? Feel tired, nervous, half-sick? Do you have a constant headache; sharp twinges of pain, too, with dizzy spells and annoying urinary disorders? Then there's cause for worry and more cause to give your weakened kidneys prompt help. Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys.

Brainerd folks recommend Doan's for just such troubles.

Mrs. Nickel Lenners, 705 5th St., B. Brainerd, says: "I had a steady, dull ache across the small of my back and if I got down, it was almost impossible to straighten. I also had sharp catches across my kidneys. Dizzy spells came over me, and I became tired and seemed to lose all my strength. My kidneys were disordered and I felt nervous and irritated. I used a box of Doan's Pills from Johnson's Pharmacy and they cured me."

Attendance

DELICIOUS DINNER SERVED

2 Brainerd Men, W. A. M. Johnstone
And County Agent Roth,
Among Speakers

The Pelican Better Farming Club met at noon Tuesday at the Sigurd Brenno home, the ladies of the club serving a delicious dinner to about fifty in attendance.

The program which followed was a very interesting one, and included an address on buying at home, by W. A. M. Johnstone, clerk of the district court; an instructive talk on rural credits, by County Agent E. G. Roth, and one on the value of farm bureau clubs by Charles Scranton, president of the Twin Lakes Club. Mr. Scranton also furnished a part of the musical program.

St. Paul's Church

There will be special services at St. Paul's Episcopal church on Thursday as follows: Litany, 10 o'clock in the morning; evening prayer at 7:30 p. m. All members are urged to attend these services if possible.

WALTER HILL WILL MOVE HIS OFFICES TO ST. PAUL, REPORT

St. Paul, March 4.—Walter Hill, son of the "Empire Builder," is expected to establish offices in St. Paul. This information was learned when it was definitely announced that Mr. Hill will make his residence at the former Evans home on Summit ave.

At present his offices are in New York. Because most of his business is in the west it is believed that Mr. Hill is anxious to locate his offices nearer his business.

He expects to move into his new Summit ave. home about March 15. He has discussed the matter with Arthur Michaud of the Gopher Mutual Casualty Co.

This concern will move into the Builders Exchange building about March 15 and it is possible that Mr. Hill will establish his office in the headquarters of this insurance company.

MRS. C. E. LUM DIED

Was Wife of Dr. Lum of Duluth;
Passed Away in Daytona,
Florida

Word has been received in the city of the death of Mrs. C. E. Lum, wife of Dr. Lum, of Duluth, which occurred at Daytona, Florida, on Monday. Death resulted from pneumonia.

The remains were brought back to Duluth for burial, but the time of the funeral could not be learned. Dr. Lum is a brother of Leon Lum, well known in Brainerd, who has a summer home at Nisswa.

NERVES ALL UNSTRUNG?

Brainerd Folks Should Find the Cause and Correct It

Are you all worn out? Feel tired, nervous, half-sick? Do you have a constant headache; sharp twinges of pain, too, with dizzy spells and annoying urinary disorders? Then there's cause for worry and more cause to give your weakened kidneys prompt help. Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys.

Brainerd folks recommend Doan's for just such troubles.

Mrs. Nickel Lenners, 705 5th St., B. Brainerd, says: "I had a steady, dull ache across the small of my back and if I got down, it was almost impossible to straighten. I also had sharp catches across my kidneys. Dizzy spells came over me, and I became tired and seemed to lose all my strength. My kidneys were disordered and I felt nervous and irritated. I used a box of Doan's Pills from Johnson's Pharmacy and they cured me."

HOPPE GREATEST EVER, SAYS FARRELL

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, March 4.—Willie Hoppe, world's greatest billiard player, started out very badly in his recent match with Bob Cannefax, world's three-cushion champion. Hoppe is a balk-line player and he stepped out of his customary role to meet a champion at three-cushion billiards.

There were gathered in the gallery at the Friars Club, actors, promoters, booking agents and other Broadway celebrities who have much spare time on their hands and who play billiards to while away their idle moments.

When Hoppe lost twenty points in the first two blocks of a ten-block match, the jury of critics was called and it was the unanimous verdict that: "Every man ought to stick to his own racket."

The philosophy of the theatrical section of the Friars Club is that a good hooper shouldn't try to sing, that a man with a Shakespearian face shouldn't be a juvenile in a musical show and that a juggler shouldn't try to rag a piano.

Hoppe is a balk-line player, the jury reasoned and he shouldn't try to beat a three-cushion champion.

"He isn't playing that shot right."

"He's playing outside the ball and he should be inside."

"De Oro always said to get your cushion first."

It was almost general opinion that Cannefax knew more about the three-cushion game and that Hoppe had only a most valiant heart and the execution of a master.

When Hoppe got going after the second block, slowly cut down the lead and finally started to pull away from Cannefax, it was admitted that he did know something about billiards and when he won the match he was hailed as a genius.

Hoppe in the judgment of competent writers who have been covering billiards for years won not because he knew more about three-cushion billiards, but because he knew more about playing billiards than Cannefax.

Welker Cochran, one of the best young balk-line players in the world, said that Hoppe had won because he knew how to leave the balls safely. His defensive game completely upset the morale of Cannefax who had never played before against such a master.

INDOOR BASEBALL MAKES OFFICIAL START LAST NIGHT

Y FIELD SEES HORNETS DEFEAT THE INDIANS, 18 TO 3

The Hornets won the first game of the Indoor Baseball league at the Y. M. C. A. last night, when they buzzed through the defense of the Indians for a score of 18-3.

The Indians were the first to count, then they scored one run in the first frame. Their lead was short-lived as the Hornets counted three in the same inning. The Hornets hummed around the bases at will from the opening to the end of the game. But the Indians were on the war path and were determined to keep the sting of the Hornets away, but found the Hornets' offensive too strong.

Big Chief Hagberg hurled for the losers, with Opsahl at the receiving end. Bollens and Thorkildson formed the battery for the Hornets.

Tonight the Graybeards and the Skunks clash at 8:30.

Score by innings:
Indians 111 600 0—3
Hornets 374 310 x—18

YOUNG GRUENHAGEN, ATHLETE Bill, Son of W. H. Gruenhagen, Wins Second Place in Illinois Athletic Carnival

W. H. Gruenhagen, formerly of Brainerd, and now residing in Minneapolis, has handed the Dispatch the following clipping taken from the University of Minnesota news sheets, which concern his son, William Gruenhagen, well known in this city:

"Bill Gruenhagen, University of Minnesota speedster of whom much was expected in football last fall, justified himself last week when he won second in the 300-yard event at the Illinois indoor relay carnival, the only Minnesotan to place prominently. Gruenhagen was declared ineligible for football last fall and his speed and ability to catch passes were lost to the 1924 team."

W. H. Gruenhagen is a brother of P. H. and E. D. Gruenhagen of this city, and is secretary-treasurer of the Gruenhagen Company.

ST. PAUL HAS SEVEN PUGS ON M. A. C. CARD

St. Paul, March 4.—Seven St. Paul boxers are on the fight card at the Minneapolis A. C. on Wednesday night.

Rusty Jones is on in the main event of eight rounds, meeting Harold White, Minneapolis.

Jack Brown and Larry Coleman, both of St. Paul, are on for six, Nick Olivia and Art Schere, St. Paul, oppose each other. Joe Martin, St. Paul heavy, meets Al Strommer, Minneapolis, Mack Johnson, St. Paul colored middle, battles Ira Johnson, Minneapolis.

NURMI STARTS OUT ON TOUR OF U. S., CANADA

New York, March 4.—Paavo Nurmi, world's greatest runner, was on his way today on a 10-day jaunt through the United States and Canada, after he had equaled his record of 6:39 2-5 for a mile and a half here last night. Nurmi kept his eyes on his watch and missed a new record only by a slight miscalculation, as he did not press himself at any time.

Dark-eyed Dolores Rouse does it to Tom, temporarily, in "Oh, You Tony," the big William Fox special attraction that brings Tom Mix and his wonder horse Tony to the Lyceum Theatre on Thursday and Friday.

As the light feminine "heavy" villainess of the play, "Countess" Maya Bulbulara of Washington's fastest set, dainty Dolores lassoes big, boyish "Tom Masters," visiting ranch owner, with her looks, and has him all tied up in a jiffy, till his money gives out and "home, sweet home" sounds good again.

4 Vaudeville Acts at New Park on Saturday, With "Special" Picture
The New Park will present four big vaudeville acts and Bebe Daniels and Ricardo Cortez in "Argentine Love" Saturday at popular prices.

"Uncle Josh Spruceby" Tonight
Theatre lovers of Brainerd are to be given an opportunity to enjoy one of the season's most welcome, comical and incidentally most pathetic rural plays when "Uncle Josh Spruceby," a three-act comedy drama is presented at the New Park Theatre tonight.

With a cast of recognized principals, including William A. Griggs, Frank Daniels, Gertrude Walsh, Frank Daniels Jr., Dan. F. Rowe, Theo. J. Daniels and Fred Forbes, besides other players of less importance the "Uncle Josh" Company will present a play which, throughout the East, has proved one of the most popular of popular priced attractions. The company carries its own scenery, costumes and combination brass band and orchestra. Vaudeville between acts.

A Good Story and Splendid Acting
"Another Man's Wife," which opened last night at the Lyceum Theatre, has everything—and a little bit more. A splendid cast, a big theme, a most entertaining story, beautiful settings, all kinds of thrills—that should be enough to please the most finical picturegoer.

The story is woven about the mat-

"ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE" RELEASED BY PRODUCERS DISTRIBUTION CORPORATION

rimonial adventures of John and Helen Brand.

A most realistic shipwreck, a free-for-all fight in a Mexican cafe and another on board a barge are three of the biggest thrills. The picture is varied and colorful, the setting changing from San Francisco to aboard ship, then to Mexico and then to a stranded barge.

This is an excellent picture. Don't miss it!

Y FIELD SEES HORNETS DEFEAT THE INDIANS.

18 TO 3

The Hornets won the first game of the Indoor Baseball league at the Y. M. C. A. last night, when they buzzed through the defense of the Indians for a score of 18-3.

The Indians were the first to count, then they scored one run in the first frame. Their lead was short-lived as the Hornets counted three in the same inning. The Hornets hummed around the bases at will from the opening to the end of the game. But the Indians were on the war path and were determined to keep the sting of the Hornets away, but found the Hornets' offensive too strong.

Big Chief Hagberg hurled for the losers, with Opsahl at the receiving end. Bollens and Thorkildson formed the battery for the Hornets.

Tonight the Graybeards and the Skunks clash at 8:30.

Score by Innings:

Indians.....111 000 0—3
Hornets.....374 310 x—18

YOUNG GRUENHAGEN, ATHLETE

Bill, Son of W. H. Gruenhagen, Wins
Second Place in Illinois
Athletic Carnival

W. H. Gruenhagen, formerly of Brainerd, and now residing in Minneapolis, has handed the Dispatch the following clipping taken from the University of Minnesota news sheets, which concern his son, William Gruenhagen, well known in this city:

"Bill Gruenhagen, University of Minnesota speedster of whom much was expected in football last fall, justified himself last week when he won second in the 300-yard event at the Illinois indoor relay carnival, the only Minnesotan to place prominently. Gruenhagen was declared ineligible for football last fall and his speed and ability to catch passes were lost to the 1924 team."

W. H. Gruenhagen is a brother of F. H. and E. D. Gruenhagen of this city, and is secretary-treasurer of the Gruenhagen Company.

ST. PAUL HAS SEVEN
PUGS ON M. A. C. CARD

St. Paul, March 4.—Seven St. Paul boxers are on the fight card at the Minneapolis A. C. on Wednesday night.

Rusty Jones is on in the main event of eight rounds, meeting Harold White, Minneapolis.

Jack Brown and Larry Coleman, both of St. Paul, are on for six. Nick Olivia and Art Schere, St. Paul, oppose each other. Joe Martin, St. Paul heavy, meets Al Strommer, Minneapolis. Mack Johnson, St. Paul colored middle, battles Ira Johnson, Minneapolis.

NURMI STARTS OUT ON TOUR OF U. S., CANADA

New York, March 4.—Paavo Nurmi, world's greatest runner, was on his way today on a 10-day jaunt through the United States and Canada, after he had equaled his record of 6:39 2-5 for a mile and a half here last night. Nurmi kept his eyes on his watch and missed a new record only by a slight miscalculation, as he did not press himself at any time.

Gloria Swanson and Ian Keith in the Allan Dwan Production
'Her Love Story' A Paramount Picture

That's the title of Gloria's latest Paramount picture, an Allan Dwan production, which comes to the New Park on Thursday and Friday. The story is an adaptation by Frank Tuttle of Mary Roberts Rinehart's novel and magazine serial, "Her Majesty, the Queen." Ian Keith has the leading man's role opposite the star, and others in the strong supporting cast include George Fawcett, Eddin Gray, Mario Majeroni, Sidney Herbert and other big names well known on both stage and screen.

To voice the opinion of the editor of the magazine in which the story appeared, "Mary Roberts Rinehart is one of the most remarkable personalities in this country. If some man wrote all the novels, all the plays and all the perfectly wonderful stories that she's written, we—meaning we men—would all get up on our feet and say, 'here is one who can produce more fine work than any living human being.'"

popular of popular priced attractions. The company carries its own scenery, costumes and combination brass band and orchestra. Vaudeville between acts.

A Good Story and Splendid Acting
"Another Man's Wife," which opened last night at the Lyceum Theatre, has everything—and a little bit more. A splendid cast, a big theme, a most entertaining story, beautiful settings, all kinds of thrills—that should be enough to please the most finical picturegoer.

The story is woven about the mat-

can vamp big Tom Mix, the cowboy star, can get away with murder.

Dark-eyed Dolores Rousseau does it to Tom, temporarily, in "Oh, You Tony," the big William Fox special attraction that brings Tom Mix and his wonder horse Tony to the Lyceum Theatre on Thursday and Friday.

As the light feminine "heavy" villainess of the play, "Countess" Maya Bulbulara of Washington's fastest set, dainty Dolores lassoes big, boyish "Tom Masters," visiting ranch-owner, with her looks, and has him all tied up in a jiffy, till his money gives out and "home, sweet home" sounds good again.

4 Vaudeville Acts at New Park on Saturday, With "Special" Picture
The New Park will present four big vaudeville acts and Bebe Daniels and Ricardo Cortez in "Argentine Love" Saturday at popular prices.

"Uncle Josh Spruceby" Tonight
Theatre lovers of Brainerd are to be given an opportunity to enjoy one of the season's most welcome, comical and incidentally most pathetic rural plays when "Uncle Josh Spruceby," a three-act comedy drama is presented at the New Park Theatre tonight.

With a cast of recognized principals, including William A. Grigg, Frank Daniels, Gertrude Walsh, Frank Daniels Jr., Dan. F. Rowe, Theo. J. Daniels and Fred Forbes, besides other players of less importance, the "Uncle Josh" Company will present a play which, throughout the East, has proved one of the most romantic adventures of John and Helen Brand.

A most realistic shipwreck, a free-for-all fight in a Mexican cafe and another on board a barge are three of the biggest thrills. The picture is varied and colorful, the setting changing from San Francisco to aboard ship, then to Mexico and then to a stranded barge.

This is an excellent picture. Don't miss it!
